Ike Believes Korea Truce Will Succeed

War Will Be Ended Satisfactorily, He Tells Press Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today unrest seems to be spreading like wildfire behind the Iron Curtain.

This demonstrates that people who have known freedom are willing to sacrifice life itself to regain it, the President told a news conference.

He ruled out, however, any active support by the United States for revolts in the satellite countries.

Eisenhower also said he believes with very deep conviction that a satisfactory conclusion of the Korean War will be worked out.

He described the present negotiations with South Korean President Syngman Rhee as a confused situation, but said Americans should not be too discouraged.

Eisenhower added quickly that these differences with Rhee are very real.

On other matters the President:

1. Said he believes Secretary of State Dulles can get out a clear directive making it plain what books should be stocked in the overseas information libraries maintained by the State Department.

Dulles, he said, has called his attention to the law allowing these libraries to be set up and this law makes it plain the books in the libraries should be about American life and the American system of government.

The President said he is perfectly clear in his own mind about the question of "purging," as a reporter put it, books from overseas libraries.

As for the removal from some libraries of detective stories by Dashiell Hammett, a writer long identified with leftist causes, Eisenhower said he thinks some one got frightened. He added he himself wouldn't countenance the removal of Hammett's detective stories.

The President said he did not recall saying at a recent news conference that the State Department can do anything it pleases about disposing of books which advocate the overthrow of the U. S. government by force.

2. Described the central purpose of the forthcoming Anglo-American-French foreign minister conference here as to increase understanding among the three powers on a variety of subjects including Korea, the Middle East, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Indochina and world trade.

He said he hopes the talks will be more or less informal as the postponed Bermuda conference among himself, Prime Minister Churchill and the French premier was scheduled to be.

3. Said he believes the Repub-

ROKs Fight Losing Battle With Chinese

Superior Red Forces Seize Key Peaks In Hard Fighting

SEOUL (AP) — Between 1,000 and 2,000 Chinese Reds knocked weary South Korean troops off towering Lookout Mountain today after the ROKs had clawed their way to the crest in a predawn attack.

The Red assault came suddenly as South Korean soldiers began mopping up pockets of Chinese they had bypassed in routing 4,000 Chinese from the East-Central Korean height.

The fight for this strategic 1,600-foot mountain has raged for five days with both sides pouring in thousands of troops.

Early today, American military advisers jubilantly reported the ROKs were firmly entrenched on Lookout and its adjoining ridges.

The ROK victory apparently had halted a Communist advance that had moved six miles toward the vital Kumsong River Valley in a little more than two weeks.

To the east, a see-saw battle raged for lofty Virginia Hill while furious but localized fights flamed on Finger Ridge and in the Sniper Ridge area.

The ROKs pushed to the top of Virginia Hill before dawn, but were beaten off by about 1,000 Reds just after daybreak.

On Finger Ridge, ROKs clawed to the crest in four hours of close-quarter fighting, only to have the Chinese reinforce and drive them back down.

At last report, the South Koreans were fighting back up the slopes.

Other ROKs crushed a 300-man Chinese assault on Outpost Victor in the Sniper Ridge region.

Showdown With Rhee Imminent

Robertson Calls Off Session With South Korean President

SEOUL (AP)—The U. N. Far East commander called a secret conference of his top military leaders in Korea today as officials both here and in Washington made it plain the Allies plan to go ahead with a truce whether or not South Korea co-operates.

Washington quarters predicted a showdown within 24 hours with stubborn old President Syngman Rhee over his refusal to accept a truce which leaves his country divided.

President Eisenhower's special truce emissary, meanwhile, postponed a conference with Rhee today.

An authoritative source here revealed that Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson, Eisenhower's truce troubleshooter, has made concessions to Rhee in five conferences. He said "the door is not closed" to an agreement on a truce.

Robertson reportedly agreed to a possible joint U. S.-Korean walkout from a post-armistice peace conference if the Reds use the talks to try and win advantages they could not win on the battlefield.

And there were reports that a draft of a proposed mutual defense pact between the U. S. and Korea has been drawn. Such a pact is Rhee's No.1 demand.

The source added, however, that after declaring that "all my demands have been met," Rhee made fresh demands which have blocked an agreement.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made it plain in Washington Tuesday that the U. S. intends to sign an armistice with the Communists even though Rhee may refuse to co-operate. And in Seoul a high official declared, "We are going ahead with an armistice, undeterred."

Gen. Mark W. Clark did not say why he summoned top air, naval and ground commanders to the secret conference in Tokyo.

His headquarters said, "There will be no announcement as to the subjects discussed."

Observers agreed the deepening armistice crisis unquestionably topped the agenda. And there was speculation that the generals and admirals would map strategy if trouble flares as a result of Rhee's threats to fight on alone if a truce is signed.

In Washington, Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) suggested that "we might be put in the embarrassing position of having to fight the South Koreans in behalf of the Communists" if the Reds agree to a truce on the basis of pledges made by Gen. Clark.

And Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) of a Senate foreign relations subcommittee on the Far East expressed fear "the Communists might put us in a tremendous hole if they decided to sign the truce paper."

Associated Press Correspondent Sam Summerlin quoted an authoritative source here as saying Rhee told Robertson, "All my demands have been met by President Eisenhower in the truce crisis" after Robertson "clarified" four points last Saturday.

Rhee had asked for clarification of the U. S. position on:

1. A mutual security pact between the U. S. and South Korea.
2. U. S. economic and military aid to South Korea.
3. A pledge that the U. S. would stand with South Korea in the post-armistice political conference.
4. U. S. co-operation in striving for "peaceful unification" of Korea.

The source said Rhee first appeared delighted with Robertson's oral explanation, but later injected

Erie Officials Pleased With Turnout

More Than 11,000 Tour Diesel Shop At Open House

More than 11,000 people visited the Erie Railroad Diesel Shop open house Tuesday. Officials handed out 10,728 tickets to visitors but said that from 1,000 to 1,500 others entered the rear door where tickets were not being distributed.

About 7,000 had entered the shop by 7 p.m. From that time on, however, the size of the crowd increased so greatly that it had to be split into two sections, one going through the diesel locomotive and over the regular route of the tour, and the other visiting the other exhibitions before going through the locomotive.

The last of the visitors entered the main entrance at 9:30, 30 minutes after the show was scheduled to close. At 10 people were still lined up waiting to ride the gondola cars out to the wash rack and back.

The throng consumed 75 gallons of coffee, 11,000 cups of ice cream, 9,000 popsicles, and more than 12,000 bottles of soft drinks. The ice cream cups were made especially for the open house and represented the entire supply in the city of Marion. They were gone by 8 and the reserve supply of popsicles was distributed.

Charles N. Demian, manager of press relations for the Erie, was astounded by the consumption of coffee. "At Hornell, where we held open house last year in the middle of October on a chilly day, only 42 gallons of coffee were passed out. The temperature in the shop today was in the high 90's yet we gave out 75 gallons," he said.

H. J. Phelps, master mechanic at the diesel shop and the man in charge of the show said this was "one of the nicest shows put on anywhere."

Long Line

At one time around 8 p.m., the line of persons waiting to enter the plant stretched from the main door to Kenton Ave. The parking lot was almost completely jammed during the evening hours, but special Erie police managed to keep the flow of people and vehicles moving with no serious delays.

Bird McGinnis Post 162, American Legion, presented Phelps with an American Flag at 7:30. The Drum and Bugle Corps marched into the shop and played several numbers before Don Williams of the post made the presentation. The group then moved to the main entrance where they played for the people until 8:45 when they disbanded.

As expected, the greater part of the crowd arrived after the dinner hour. Only 6,000 had passed through the doors at 6:30, but from that time on, the attendants were mobbed with the crowd.

One little girl, Dinah Stapleton of 378 Avondale Ave., became separated from her mother in the evening. A neighbor, Jack Cottrill of 450 Avondale Ave., comforted the girl and took her home.

Directors Tour Plant

The Erie board of directors arrived at 10:30 a.m., had a dinner at the Marion Country Club, went through the open house, and left aboard their Directors' Special train at 6:30. They were sched-

Galion Storm Fells Trees, Injures One

Debris Halts Traffic On Several Streets, Firemen Kept Busy

Special to The Star

GALION—One man was injured and three other persons escaped injury Tuesday afternoon when falling trees hit two automobiles.

Torrential rain, lightning and high winds, brought down trees and large limbs that blocked traffic in a number of places on city streets. Service was disrupted when telephone poles and lines, and power lines were swept down by the stiff winds and falling debris. The storm struck the city shortly after 5 p.m.

Paul Wilhelm, 46, of Galion, driving a 1952 Plymouth, on his way to the dentist was not a half block from his home when a large tree fell on his car, and completely blocked traffic in the street. Wilhelm suffered a neck injury from the sudden impact, and was treated by a Galion physician. The top of the car was caved in, the front of the car badly damaged, and windows shattered. City workmen had to cut away the limbs to free the car which was towed to a local garage.

In another automobile, John C. Fulton, 38, was sitting in his parked car with his two children, in front of 208 Harding Way West, when half of a large maple tree fell on the car. Fulton, an empolyee of the North Electric Manufacturing Co., and his children, Robert, 12, and Sharon Diane, two and one-half, were in the front seat. They were uninjured, but had to crawl into the back seat to open a car door and get out. Fulton said he felt the impact and then heard the little girl scream with fright. The top of the car was badly damaged. Fulton said it is not worth repairing.

Trees, and huge limbs, felled by the storm, laid across the street in at least seven different places, blocking traffic completely. One-way traffic was maintained two places on Harding Way West and South St.

Water completely inundated S. Union St. for nearly a block south of the New York Central and Erie Railroad tracks, and on E. Parson St. in front of the Ritchey Food Store and across the railroad in

Rap Ike's Plan To Get Rid Of Farm Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cries of "blank check" and "giveaway" foreshadowed rough going today for President Eisenhower's request for blanket authority to use government-owned farm surpluses to combat famine abroad.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) sought to attach the proposal in modified form to the Senate foreign aid authorization bill last night and was beaten down, 53-12, after Sen. Russell (D-Ga) shouted:

"Here we are finding in this business administration the Brannan Plan on an international scale."

Sen. Knowland of California, the acting Republican leader, replied that Eisenhower specified the farm commodities were to be used to meet "famine or other urgent re-

House Drive On to Restore Defense Cuts

Democrats Spark Bid to Give Billion Back to Air Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's military prestige was thrown today into a campaign to ward off House increases in the coming year's 34 billion dollar defense budget.

A Democratic move was under way to restore more than one billion dollars cut from new Air Force funds for the fiscal year starting today.

Rep. Scrivner (R-Kan) said in a speech prepared to open debate that the only issue on the defense budget is a choice between the Eisenhower-backed 120 - wing Air Force and the 143-wing goal set three years ago by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The House argues the question today with a vote due tomorrow on the $34,434,140,500 budget. This is six billion dollars less than former President Truman recommended and $1,337,422,500 below Eisenhower's "minimum," cut that amount by the House Appropriations Committee.

The money bill earmarks these funds, compared with Truman's recommendations:

Army — $12,982,000,000 ($12,109,591,000) with the increase due to inclusion of Korean War costs.

Navy — $9,384,383,000 ($16,078,-

$5,000 Blaze Believed To Be Accidental

Unoccupied House Gutted; No Sign Of Arson Discovered

A fire of undetermined but suspicious origin early today gutted an unoccupied five-room frame house located at the rear of 262 Ballentine Ave. causing an estimated $5,000 damage.

Discovery of the blaze came shortly before 3:50 a.m. when the owner of the house, Joseph Sens of 262 Ballentine Ave. smelled smoke and looked out a rear window of his house.

By that time flames were shooting from the front door of the burning house, he said. Rushing to his telephone he called the fire department.

Firemen from the Central and Mark St. stations answered the alarm and worked for an hour from 3:52 a.m. when the alarm reached them until nearly 5 a.m. to extinguish the blaze.

A former occupant of the house, Miss Joanne Owens had moved most of her belongings into the living room of the house in preparation to move today, she told Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt and Fire Marshal Thomas Finch this morning. The fire apparently began in this room.

She said she was not near the house Tuesday night. Sens reported that she had not occupied the dwelling since Saturday and that all utilities had been turned off since that time.

This apparently ruled out the possibility the fire may have been caused by a short circuit in the wiring or other similar causes.

Following a preliminary investigation today, Fire Chief Sifritt said he believed the fire was accidental and that some one may have been in the house and dropped a lighted cigarette on some furniture causing it to start burning.

There was evidence at the rear of the house that someone may have pried loose a rear screen and entered the house through an unlocked window.

A one-story building, the house

No Agreement Reached on Budget

State Funds Tied Up Until Assembly Acts

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — Money, money everywhere, but not a cent to spend!

That was the Ohio State government's plight today. Its treasury bulges with millions of dollars, but it lacks an appropriations bill to authorize the legal spending of one thin dime.

The appropriations act of the 1951 Legislature expired at 12:01 a. m., EST, today. Until the Republican Legislature agrees on a new general appropriations bill and Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche signs it, the state's purse-strings are tied.

If final Senate-House agreement can be reached by Monday, says State Auditor James A. Rhodes, no one will be hurt. But if agreement is delayed past that date, checks for aid for aged recipients in Adams, Allen, Ashland, Ashtabula, Athens, Auglaize, Belmont and Brown Counties will be held up. Further delays would affect progressively more recipients, Rhodes said.

Both Senate and House have passed the appropriations measure, but there are sharp differences in the amounts the two houses want to spend. These different ideas have forced the measure into a Senate-House conference committee to reconcile the differences. The committee still is deadlocked on some 17 or 18 budget items.

House Speaker William Saxbe (R-Champaign) is optimistic over early settlement of the budget issues.

"No one is going to miss a pay roll," he promised. Next scheduled payday for some 30,000 state employes is July 15. But Saxbe's promise didn't include legislators themselves. Their July 1 pay checks won't be forthcoming until

Three-Day Celebration Planned

Prospect Sesqui Show Will Begin Thursday

A parade at 8 p.m. Thursday opens Prospect's sesquicentennial celebration which will end Saturday. The three-day celebration is featured by some 16 different events including parades, band concerts, a fireworks display, a folk festival and a ball game.

The parade in charge of Verne I. Mounts American Legion Post 368 with Fred Issler as parade marshal will include some 16 floats, three bands, a 100-year-old buckboard buggy, some five or six early model automobiles and a number of other units.

Prospect Mayor William F. Lowry, members of the village council, municipal light board members and school board members will ride in places of honor at the head of the parade. Sesquicentennial Queen Barbara Pine's float will also occupy a prominent place in the parade. Also riding on the float will be her six attendants, Joyce Brewer, Judi Long, JoAnne Roberts, Alma Shepherd, Marilyn Carr and Jane Ball. Bob Rodgers, king for the three-day event, will also ride on a special float.

Other Floats

Other floats occupying prominent places in the parade will carry Geraldine Landon as "Miss Ohio," Sally Skinner as "Miss America," Nevin Shuey as "Uncle Sam," one for former Prospect queens, Mrs. Paul Dobberstein and Mrs. Clifford Bland, a Child Conservation League Delta Club float, two Boy Scout floats, a 4-H Club float, and one prepared by all Prospect churches.

The remaining six or more floats are being sponsored by merchants, civic and fraternal organizations. Prospect, Pleasant and Radnor School bands will take part in the parade. Other sections of the parade will be a group of grade school boys and girls riding tricycles, a group of older children on bikes and a group riding horses and ponies.

A 1910 model Ford will be among the early model cars which are being provided by Delaware residents.

Prospect and Pleasant School bands will present a concert in a roped-off area in the shopping district following the parade. Also Thursday evening, a public auction sale is scheduled in the downtown area.

Purpose of the sesqui celebration in Prospect is not only to honor Ohio's 150th birthday but to raise funds for establishment of a community center and to

Cut Acreage or Lose Price Support, Farmers Told

Benson Calls for 30 Per Cent Less Wheat in '54

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson waited until the final day today to announce that rigid production controls will be invoked on the 1954 wheat crop to keep surpluses from getting much if any larger.

Crop control laws require the secretary to announce marketing quotas not later than July 1 for the following year's crop if supplies at the time are of a size legally defined as surplus.

Latest reports on this year's production, plus reserves from past crops, indicate a total supply of slightly more than 1,700,000,000 bushels, the largest of record and around 700 million bushels more than markets are expected to take before the 1954 crop is harvested.

Benson apparently waited until today for possible action by Congress to make next year's cutback in production less drastic than would be required under present law. Under existing law, the 1954 planting would have to be 55 million acres, a reduction of 30 per cent from this year's 78 million acres.

The House has passed a bill to set the allotment at 66 million acres, a cut of 15 per cent. The Senate has before it a measure to fix the allotment at 62 million acres, but has not acted.

The law gives Benson until July 15 to announce the allotment—and hence the extent of the production cut he would impose. Individual quotas in turn will be in line with the national allotment.

Quotas must be submitted to a referendum of affected wheat growers. Present law requires such an election to be held not later than July 24. But Congress may postpone the referendum until Aug. 14.

Such an extension would be made to give the department more time to work out individual planting shares for farmers and get proper notices to them. Quotas require the approval of at least two-thirds of the growers voting.

Rejection of quotas would result in a sharp drop in the government price support rate. Supports would be at 90 per cent of parity, or around $2.20 a bushel, if quotas were approved. But they would drop to 50 per cent of parity, or around $1.22, if quotas should be rejected. Parity is a price said by law to be fair to farmers in terms of prices they paid for things they buy.

Quotas were last imposed on wheat in 1942. Acreage planting allotments were last used in 1950.

Meanwhile, the department announced that the support rate for 1953-crop wheat will average $2.21 a bushel, the minimum set last fall under a forward pricing provision of the law.

Teacher Calls For Freedom Of Expression

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A plea for freedom of expression in American schoolrooms as a continued "bulwark of democracy" was made today by Sarah C. Caldwell, president of the National Education Association.

The Akron, O., schoolteacher made her plea in a speech prepared for the 6,000 delegates at the NEA convention. Resolutions condemning censorship of teachers, meanwhile, were being readied to present to the convention Friday.

"In our free public schools, we have the true instrument of human progress," said Mrs. Caldwell. "But such progress can continue only when the climate is right—when the air is cleared by forthright, open discussion.

"Censorship is a weapon of the totalitarians. Freedom of expression is the bulwark of democracy."

Before Mrs. Caldwell spoke, the NEA Commission for Defense of Democracy Through Education drew up a resolution to condemn "book burnings, purges or other devices which restrict freedom of thought" in classrooms in the United States.

The resolution will be voted in a general NEA session Friday.

The commission secretary, Richard B. Kennan of Washington, D. C., said the term "book burning" was intended to mean any devices by individuals or pressure groups to restrict the freedom of schoolteachers to select materials on controversial subjects.

Oaklief Named School Head At Kenton

Special to The Star

KENTON—Kenton High School's principal for the last eight years, Paul Oaklief, has accepted the position of superintendent of the city schools, succeeding J. C. Bower, who resigned to become superintendent of the St. Bernard, O., schools.

Oaklief had resigned his post here last April to become superintendent of the Wauseon schools. He notified the Wauseon Board of Education Tuesday tha he would not be available for the position there.

The Kenton superintendency was offered Oaklief after a meeting of the Kenton Board of Education Monday, and he accepted immediately.

O. M. Welch, superintendent at Delta, O., schools since 1943, has been employed as Kenton High School principal.

Oaklief, is a native of Newcomerstown and is a graduate of Bowling Green State University and Ohio State University. He has been in Kenton for 15 years, eight years as principal, one as acting superintendent and seven years as teacher.

Oaklief, the father of two children, is president of the Kenton Rotary Club, vice president of the Ohio State Alumni Association in Hardin County, and a member of three Kenton Masonic bodies. His wife has been a substitute teacher in the Hardin County school system, having taught at Roundhead and Hepburn.

Dr. Stengel Speaks To Cardington Group

Dr. F. A. Stengel of Marion was a guest speaker at a meeting of the Cardington Business Men's Association Tuesday night. Paul A. Richardson, president, presided for the meeting during which civic improvements and shopping hours were items of interest brought up for discussion. Dr. Stengel spoke on "Hobbies." Approximately 40 members and guests were present.

Betty Grable Leaves 20th Century-Fox

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The growing peril to Hollywood's star system was dramatized today with the news that 20th Century-Fox had parted with its biggest money-maker, Betty Grable.

The star and studio reached an "amicable" ending of her contract, which would have expired in September, 1954. During her 13-year reign as queen of the lot, she had earned millions for herself and the company in glossy musicals. She became the No. 1 box-office draw in wartime and has remained among the top 10 longer than any other female star.

At 36, her glamor gams are still holding their own with the newer names. Then why would 20th Century-Fox grant her wish for freedom?

One of the principal reasons is that the film studios can no longer support the expensive star lists of the past. With picture making divorced from theater operation by government order, the studios have to show a profit or else. That meant cutting down the overhead costs that the theaters could once absorb.

Miss Grable was earning an estimated $5,000 a week plus big bonuses at the end of each picture. Studios now figure they can avoid such year-around expenses and merely hire talent by the picture. The 3-D revolution has caused fewer pictures to be made, requiring fewer actors.

This points to the decline of the star system. The studios are letting many of their established stars go and building few new ones.

TWICE AMERICAN FORCES under General William Henry Harrison, later first President of the United States from Ohio, prevented the invasion of Ohio by the British and Indians from Detroit in the War of 1812 at Fort Meigs near Perrysburg. Today, the Fort Meigs Park, containing 46 acres with picnic facilities, is one of the historic sites maintained by the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society.

Haupt, a missionary of the NSA and pastor of the Newport, Ky., church; the Rev. Lena Crane of Cicero, Ill., pastor of First Spiritualist Church at Springfield.

The services will be open to the public, it was announced. Reservations for cottages and rooms and programs are in charge of Mrs. Helen Baker at Woolley Park, Ashley.

Lively Entry Into 2nd Half of '53

Business View Optimistic

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Business steps into the second half of the year at a lively pace. Most businessmen are betting Christmas will find that pace slackened only slightly if at all.

"The only signs of recession are in a few persons' heads," the president of an eastern railroad scoffs.

Bankers expect business to hold at a high level during the second half and see no "immediate indication of a slowing down," the American Bankers Association reports.

Government economists insist that after the usual summer siesta—with many plants closing for mass vacations and repairs—business will pick up in the fall and keep to a fairly fast clip the rest of the year.

This optimism of the majority isn't universally shared, of course. Four supports of the boom in the past are being watched now for economic termites: Auto production, housing, farm income, and defense spending.

Auto production—Hitting a record high in the first half — may slow down by fall, although the big companies deny this. Used car dealers already are complaining of slow sales and growing inventories.

Steel companies—Also doing a record business, much of it with Detroit—say orders on their books will keep them busy to the end of the year. They report no slowdown yet in orders from auto makers.

Home building is slowing down just a little. Some in the building industry expect it will be harder to find mortgage money and interest charges will be higher. Construction costs won't ease much. Demand for new homes won't be as pressing. Old homes will sell at lower prices.

Business, on the other hand, plans in the next three months to top by 13 per cent last year's expansion of plants and equipment.

Farm income will be smaller this fall than last. Prices for most farm products are lower than a year ago. And huge surpluses of some commodities overhang the markets. Already makers of farm machinery are cutting back production schedules.

Defense spending will continue high — the big hanover of appropriated but unspent sums assures that. But some lavish military spending plans are being trimmed. Cancellations of orders will hurt some factories, shorten the work week, or even mean layoffs.

Jobs will be at a peak this summer, but could be a little less plentiful by year's end. The work week may shrink, bringing down average weekly earnings from their present record high of $71.05. Wage increases this spring and summer have been a little more modest than in previous years.

Personal incomes, rising through the first half, aren't likely to go up much more. The pace was definitely slower at midyear.

The cost of living—Fairly stable during the first half—is likely to be less galling. Rents and services may be a little more costly. But food is back to a seasonal pattern—surpluses holding down prices.

Clothing, shoe and furniture prices will be held down by stiff and growing competition, although all three industries are confidently predicting good health for the rest of the year.

Gasoline and fuel oil prices will be higher—if recent hikes can be made to stick in view of growing world-wide competition in the oil industry. Demand is expected to be higher in the coming months than a year ago, but production facilities are greatly expanded.

Manufacturers Warned To Hire Night Guards

Regular meeting of the Manufacturers Council of the Marion Chamber of Commerce was held Monday at Hotel Harding.

J. H. Walker, chairman of the council, warned members of the seriousness of the fires believed set by a firebug and told them of the importance of having night watchmen on duty.

All members were urged to attend the grade crossing elimination survey project meeting at the State Street School July 9.

Bucyrus Judge Orders Okay Of Transfer

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — The Crawford County board of education was expected to consider at its meeting here Saturday night a decision, released here this week by Common Pleas Judge John C. Carroll.

The decision orders the issuance of a writ of mandamus against the board to force it to approve the transfer of the property of Mr and Mrs. Harrold Krock from the Whetstone school district to the Bucyrus school district.

In ordering the board to approve the transfer for which the Krocks petitioned in January, 1952, Judge Carroll upheld the decision of the state department of education.

Last summer the state department held a hearing in Bucyrus on the transfer after the county board had refused to approve the the transfer and on July 2, the state education department ordered the county board to pass a resolution authorizing the resolution.

The county board took no action on the state department's order after which Krock filed his mandamus petition.

The Krocks filed their original transfer petition because they wanted their children to attend Bucyrus schools instead of Whetstone rural school.

In turning down their petition, county board members said they did not want to break up existing school districts.

If the Bucyrus school board rejects the transfer, the controversy would be ended, observers point out, as the city board has the final say in the matter. If it accepts the transfer, the county board could carry the case to a higher court.

Pleasant Students Named on Staff Of Workshop Paper

Two Marion County high school students, Donna Carpenter and Marilyn Mack, co-editors of the Pleasant Pointers, were given positions on the editorial staff of the Ohio University Journalism Workshop paper, The Streamliner, during the workshop held last week on the university campus in Athens, O.

From the mimeograph division of about 70 students, Donna was chosen associate editor and Marilyn, circulation manager. These two girls were sent by Pleasant Township High School to attend the eighth Annual Journalism Workshop.

The workshop was presented to educate high school students in printing and publishing school newspapers and annuals. The workshop was divided into five sections: yearbook, newspaper, business, mimeograph and photography. This year's workshop set a new record totaling 452 students from 139 schools.

Hunt Red Planes Shot Down South of Seoul

SEOUL (AP)—The Fifth Air Force said today it still had not located the wreckage of two Russian-built light Yak planes shot down by a Navy pilot 50 miles south of Seoul Monday night.

One may never be found. Navy pilot Guy P. Bordelon reported it crashed into the tidelands area south of Suwon.

The second plane, the pilot said, was downed about three miles inland. It "dove into the ground and burned," he said.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, 1953

Stubborn Old Man

It is a coincidence that Rep. Daniel A. Reed of New York is 78, the same age as President Syngman Rhee of Korea.

But it is no coincidence that both of them are in the news for, being stubborn.

Their stubborness is the product of hard, long experience with the futility of knuckling under to expediency. They know expediency never pays in the long run.

President Rhee, whose first duty is to his country, has refused to pretend that he sees anything but disaster in the presence of hositle troops inside its boundaries after a truce is arranged.

Rep. Reed, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has refused to be overridden by a new and popular administration in the age-old battle between the executive and legislative branches of government.

Be it to the credit of President Eisenhower that he decided at the last moment not to let this happen. The Republican strategy of reaching a vote on the controversial proposal to extend the excess profits tax has been revised so as not to by-pass Rep. Reed. His rights as a committee chairman will not be scuttled in order to get a quick vote on a tax proposal he would like to see defeated.

The stubborn old men have learned a thing or two worth heeding on their journey through this vale of tears. Such as when it's time to say, "No," for instance.

Fun With Fireworks

Each Year as the Fourth of July stirs nostalgia among the gray-heads, there is a gush of rosy reminiscence about the good old days when everybody used to have fun with fireworks.

As fireworks bans become more strictly enforced than they are now, this kind of talk will stray farther and farther from the truth. The truth was like this:

Most Americans dreaded Independence Day. As long as two weeks before the climax, nerves began to fray out from the incessant popping of high explosives, the screams of children who had blown off bits of their fingers or had caught an eyeful of debris and the ever-present fear of tetanus.

All night long before the Fourth, fireworks were exploding. When the big day finally had passed, there was nothing to look forward to with fear but Halloween, when the same characters who had tossed lighted firecrackers into buggies and back of skittish horses on July 4 would be building obstructions on the roads.

Don't let anyone tell you that everyone had fun with fireworks in the good old days. They were a pain in the neck, and that's why they were outlawed.

Article of Faith

In the process of never selling America short, optimists have powerful reasons for believing in the future.

But all their reasons combined cannot loom much larger than one single reason now coming into prominence. Unfortunately, the size of the reason has been dwarfed by the fears which surround nuclear fission.

The same fission which can produce an explosion also can produce power that men can harness to do their work for them. The time is in sight when atomic energy may multiply by 10 or more the consumption of electrical energy produced by atomic energy.

Even in the initial stages, atomic energy—still under federal monopoly — is the third largest manufacturing industry in the United States. By the middle of 1956, the Atomic Energy Commission's investment in plants will have grown to $8½ billion.

"When Congress decides to take the shackles off," points out "The Business Outlook, "most of this investment will prove useful for civilian, as well as military, application of atomic energy." Fortunate magazine, meanwhile, treats atomic energy as a business prospect, explaining by means of charts what it can be made to do for production.

The atomic age, a possibility in 1945, is on the verge of realization in 1953. It is one of the articles of faith underlying the certainty of an expanding economy in the United States.

Learning on the Fly

Tulane University of New Orleans is experimenting with a novel idea—putting instructors on a Navy vessel and offering college courses to seamen at sea, with full college credit. Various universities (the University of Alabama is one) set up educational centers in communities far from the main campus, send faculty members there, and offer college-credit courses in such areas convenient to persons who cannot matriculate at the central school. Other universities have varied extension offerings, including correspondence and evening courses. For courses not requiring huge central library, laboratory or similar research facilities, such ideas work out splendidly—insofar as cramming students of varied ages and backgrounds with textbook facts is concerned. Missing, of course, are the continuous close association with teachers and fellow students in an atmosphere of broad mental - spiritual development. College "education" without these is just intellectual stuffing, yet better than nothing.

Thorny Tax Problem

By David Lawrence

Administration Takes Hard Way Out

The Eisenhower administration has gone from the frying pan into the fire by its tactics in the House of Representatives.

The objective—to extend the excess-profits tax another six months—seemed the easier way to handle the tax dilemma, but it has proved the hardest.

The issue which has developed reaches farther than the question of extending and existing tax.

Quite unnecessarily the problem has become one of legislative control of the House by the majority party, and this sort of showdown need never to have been forced because it gives the Democratic minority a chance to embarrass the majority and frustrate its purpose.

As a consequence, the situation today is that the law governing the excess-profits tax has come to the expiration point automatically and, while an extension can be voted that is retroactive, it doesn't solve the fundamental problem—why a bad tax is continued and no effort is made to substitute right away something more equitable and fair to all concerned.

Since everybody, including the administration, agrees that the excess-profits tax is a vicious device that stifles competition and aids the bigger companies at the expense of the smaller ones, there was nothing to prevent the administration from offering a substitute measure that raised the same amount of revenue.

The excess-profits tax was supposed to bring in $800 million between now and the end of the year.

The administration, which now estimates its deficit at $5.8 billion—and Sen. Taft says it may run as high as $7 billion—doesn't help its standing or prestige by insisting on the $800 million item when everybody knows a cut of that amount can be made in the budget expenditures.

The real answer is politics. The administration is afraid to cut off the excess-profits tax six months ahead of the time when personal income taxes are to be automatically reduced.

The previous Congress voted both of these changes in the tax setup.

The administration might well have come up with the necessary substitutes, but it was afraid that it couldn't repeal the excess-profits tax in June without awarding just as early to the individual the 10 per cent reduction promised them by law to become effective January 1 next.

But, instead of facing up to all the issues—including the cut in foreign aid that should have been made—the administration chose to ride roughshod over the Republicans in the house who, under the leadership of Rep. Daniel Reed of New York, felt that the campaign pledges meant at least an acquiescence in the reductions which had already been voted by the Democratic Congress and approved by the Democratic administration.

Was it worth while to bring in a special rule to threaten to force the bill to a vote and establish a precednet for by-passing committee chairmen?

Would it have been better to let Mr. Reed's bill come out of the Ways and Means Committee and try to effect a compromise on it by the amending process?

These are questions that are being asked as the whole tax problem gets farther and farther away from solution.

The businesses of the country would probably have gladly accepted an extension of the excess-profits tax for six months if the administration had been willing to agree on a corporation-tax rate effective next January.

As it is, the last Congress provided that on Aprl 1, 1954, the corporaton tax automatcally comes down from the 52 per cent flat rate to 47 per cent. This is estimated as meaning a $2 billion reduction in revenue.

Certainly the administration announcement that it wanted the 52 per cent rate continued to the end of 1954 didn't sit well with business in the face of the announcement that the Treasury also wanted the excess-profits tax continued for six months.

There was a general apprehension that the 52 per cent rate would be continued indefinitely—and that's too high a rate to keep if business expansion and refinancing is to be encouraged as it has been in peacetime years in the past.

The Eisenhower administration could have had a compromise any time it wanted to sit down with Chairman Red of the House Ways and Means Committee and work one out.

A flat rate of 49 per cent, beginning in January 1954, would have been accepted as a step that removed uncertainity now concerning 1954 operations.

As it is, the busness world faces a six-month extension of the excess-profits tax and an uncertainty concerning what will be done in 1954 with respect to the straight corporation tax when the present law comes up for action on April 1, 1954.

Literary Value

By TRUMAN TWILL

The most interesting piece of literature I expect to see this year is on the mantel at home between the covers of a notebook — a nearly 200 - page manuscript in blank verse, which usually leaves me chilled and indifferent, but this is interesting for two reasons.

First is the peculiar circumstance that it was produced for his own pleasure by an old friend who does not pretend to be a writer. The idea bothered him so persistently he put it on paper hoping it would go away and let him alone.

Second, is the idea itself, which is a kind of morality play in modern talk, with modern settings—in fact with settings so commonplace that the unusual events which unfold in them seem incongruous.

Yet the thing does not even purport to be a play. It is an epic poem. It just happens to fall into scenes and acts as if it were a play, instead.

Everybody in our house has read it, except the youngest member of the family. All agreed it was hard to put down once it had been picked up, that it was without commercial value because no one would publish it and that if someone did publish it no one would buy it because it lacks extrinsic value.

We the experts have given our judgment.

Which raises a question about value — what it is and how it can be determined — or whether anyone knows what it is or how to determine it.

Best guess on this subject seems to be that absolute standards do not exist in literature and consequently no one ever knows what may have value. It all depends on what the public will pay for.

This depends, in turn, on a couple thousand things that can happen in several million combinations. That is why someone is always taking a long chance and winning, or betting on a sure thing and losing. No one can know.

While blank - verse manuscripts of great length are by no means common, they might as well be a dime a dozen as far as their commercial possibilities are concerned in 1953—but who knows this to be a fact?

Practically everything that has turned out to have commercial possibilities was shrugged off as hopeless at one stage or another of the guessing game.

Anyway, the most interesting piece of literature I expect to see this year is on the mantel at home. The thought of all that talent and skill put into it by a fellow who says he was just amusing himself makes a scribe feel like turning in his typewriter.

If only someone wanted a couple hundred pages of blank verse!

Or, in a more perfect world, would a creative genius automatically get credit for what he did, instead of being without value if he did not, instead of getting cash for what other people thought of what he did?

Summer Hot Spot

Overseas Libraries Propaganda Outlets

By Raymond Moley

It seems to me that President Eisenhower, Secretary Dulles, congressional committees, the professors, the bibliopoles, the librarians, the book publishers and others are getting completely off the track in this rumpus over the books in overseas libraries.

They don't realize that a political government cannot do what a privately endowed institution can do.

If I go to the library of Harvard University and can't find what I want, I go elsewhere and look.

If I think there are books in a private library that should not be there and tell the librarian so, he rightly tells me that it is none of my business.

If I go to an overseas library, I rightly feel that I am a proprietor and have a right to say about what is and what is not there. And so do scores of millions of other Americans.

Government, say our political orators, is everybody's business. And curiously enough, they are right.

What is everybody's business must be run on quite different principles than a private institution. There are lots of things it cannot do.

There are lots of privileges, rights, and immunities that private people have that government cannot have.

In fact, government under our system doesn't have "rights" at all.

It has "powers"—limited ones at that. That's how we keep our liberty.

The President is only a novice in politics. He is still talking like a college president, not, perhaps, because he was momentarily president of Columbia, but because he listens so much to Brother Milton.

People enjoy no "right" to have any book of their choice provided by the government.

Bill Benton, one-time senator from Conpecticut and father of the overseas libraries, takes the absurd position that when the government puts books in those libraries it can avoid endorsing them.

The books are not, he says, in any way expressing government policy, nor do they presumably portray American life. They are just books put there for a purpose which this controversy is rapidly making very vague.

If the books are not statements of government policy or what Mr. Acheson or Benton or Dulles or Eisenhower or whosis thinks are portrayals of American life, what are we buying them for and what are they there for

The recent "manifesto" of the American Library Association bears the title, "On Freedom to Read." Well, who is being kept from reading

Certain elements are denied the right to read by religious bodies, and that is a right possessed by such bodies.

Parents and guardians properly try to keep dirty books from children or the immature.

I have not heard of any other denials of the right to read. We are not setting up universities or bureaus of research abroad.

The stocking of books abroad is for propaganda, a matter in which the judgment of government is paramount.

The manifesto approved by the American Library Association in Los Angeles on June 25 was, according to the papers, cooked up at a "closed" meeting at Rye, New York, on May 2 and 3.

The drafting committee was headed by Dr. Luther Evans, a New Dealer who started under the late Harry Hopkins and rose to be Librarian of Congress.

A clear example of self-interest is the presence among the endorsers of the "manifesto" of several book publishers, "most of whom were participants in the Rye conference."

Can it be that they have a selfish interest

One of the endorsers said the other day that "the book business was going to pot" because the government wasn't buying so many books.

Thus, a government subsidy can have its effect even upon those embattled fighters for the "right to read."

If the book publishers and librarians want to keep politics out of the book business, they had best keep the book business out of politics.

Dancing Aids Mentally Ill

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON

Marion Chace, exponent of the modern dance who pioneered in the use of dance movement as a means of relieving the mentally unbalanced, developed her theory from work with children.

She found she was able to re-channelize the natural energy of the too-aggressive child and encourage self-expression of the over-shy in dance classes conducted in her own school and at the National Training School for Girls. As dance therapist in the psychotherapy division of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, a government institution, she is successfully using some of the same techniques in treating troubled adults.

JANE EADS

"Overcoming the feeling of isolation and withdrawal, common with mental patients in the acute stages of their illness, is an important phase of their treatment," she told me. Patients find it difficult to talk to people or to follow through on things. Through dance movement with someone else, or with several others, they begin to feel comfortable and dare to be members of the group. By making use of their natural way of expression they find a means of communication."

The use of ordinary forms of dancing for chronic patients and convalescents in mental hospitals is not new. Miss Chace said, but the ones she uses are more on the recreational level, such as square dances. Her method, begun about 10 years ago, encourages patients to "improvise, move together in circular formation, with their action together in very simple form, and the accent on rhythm." She says patients are very good in dancing and will do a great deal on their own, sometimes with exciting results.

Miss Chace, a native Washingtonian and a grandmother, studies the modern or contemporary form of dancing with the great masters, Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, and went on tour with the famous Denishawn concert group. Currently, as chairman of the newly - formed Modern Dance Council of Washington, she is interested in bringing leading artists to the capitol and has an impressive program scheduled for this Fall.

"Modern dance is a growing form, allowing for latitudes of change, like modern art and music,' and is gymnastic, as compared to the traditional formalized ballet," she explained.

Composed of professional dance artists and educators in the Washington area, the council has already sponsored two modern dance concerts here which Miss Chace says got "excellent response."

Old Charitable Trust

MIDDLETOWN, R. I. (AP)—After 277 years, a charitable trust which Rhode Islanders believe is America's oldest, is still donating its profits for the relief of the poor and the education of children. When John Clarke, physician-minister, died in 1676, his will provided that his farms in Middletown were to be held in trust. Any profits from them were to be used "for the relief of the poor and the bringing up of their children with learning from time to time for ever . . ." The trustees are still carrying out John Clarke's wishes. During 1952, they gave $300 to the widow of a former pastor, $50 each to nine students, and $300 for distribution by the Rev. Wilbur Nelson, pastor of the United Baptist Church, John Clarke Memorial, of Newport. After taxes and expenses, rental of the farms—now taxed for $41,600—yields about $1,300 a year.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Broadway Review

The law permitting bars in New York theaters has been signed by the mayor, and we anticipate the following first-night review:

"Tangled Moods," the new drama which opened at the Bard Theater last evening offered little to hold the interest of the audience.

The same could not be said of the theater bar, which scored a bit of proportions. It had everything.

Seldom has a saloon scored so heavily. Before the first act of the new play was half over, it was obvious that the barroom was set for a run, having all the ingredients of a Broadway hit. There was action to the hilt.

The dialogue, while not sparkling, had general appeal; the interest was sustained and the performance by the principals more than adequate, with the possible exception of the fourth bar boy from the left, a "Butch" Mooney, who was giving his first public performance and was obviously nervous and uncertain.

Some might say that "Pudge" Stookey, the head bartender, was not the type, but we disagree. He forgot his lines once or twice, but as they were limited to "Water or ginger ale" and "Okay buddie" it made little difference. He brought poise and understanding to a difficult role.

His understudy, Steve Gilligan, showed the benefit of previous experience, having obtained his start in a small Greenwich Village cafe where he attracted wide attention.

He performed in the Catskills last summer and also had the advantage of one season in a saloon near the Winter Garden.

There was a fine performance, too, by "Dutch" Hoffnagle, a trouper who had performed from coast to coast over the years. He first appearance was made in a cafe near the famous Empire State at the age of nine when he was carried on in the arms of his father, himself a well-known mixer of the era.

He was sure of himself last night and showed a superiority in getting out of futile arguments with customers, which was nothing less than sensational.

The story was a simple one concerning man's eternal search for relaxation, a few laughs and an excuse for not going to bed early. Effective indeed was a backgroun of soft music, tinkling glasses, laughter, and the buzz of many voices.

This helped to convey the mood of excitement and uncertainty of purpose.

The choreography by the Rainbow Brewery Corporation in cooperation with Federated Distillers was excellent.

The direction was flawless and the pace breathless, although that is perhaps not quite the word.

Altogether, the saloon gave a zest to the new theatrical season and enlivened a dull spell in the theater.

In the opening scenes it seemed that the performance needed tightening up, but no criticism could be made on the point for very long. As the evening wore on it was evident that 'tightness" was not at all lacking.

The story became somewhat incoherent toward the end of the evening, but this was natural. We predict a long run, especially if a tendency to use extra-small bar glasses is corrected.

Paramount is to do a revival of "The Covered Wagon," epic of the silents. Bringing it up to date perhaps, by using a hard-top Conestoga, Indians with 3-D war whoops and buffaloes with automatic steering.

Gasoline companies have hiked prices again . . . Determined to bring back the horse and buggy, no doubt.

Power Shovel Machine Can Scoop Up Room-Full of Earth

World's Largest Walking Draglines Built Here

Newly-developed walking draglines with 35 cubic yard buckets and 220 foot booms—the largest standard production machines of their kind in the world—are being built by the Marion Power Shovel Co.

Extensive research in the coal strip mining industry by Marion engineers established a need for a larger walking dragline than the company's present 7800 with a 30 cubic yard bucket and 200 foot boom.

This new 7800 walking giant can easily carry a load the length of a football field for dumping and lift it the height of a 6-story building. On one complete swing around, the bucket will travel a quarter of a mile. At one swipe, its 35 cubic yard bucket will lift enough earth to fill a room 14 feet long, 9 feet wide, and 8 feet high.

In many cases, the new 7800 will allow profitable strip mining in fields which have been abandoned in the past because smaller draglines were not able to handle overburden of dirt and rock on a paying basis, the company stated.

Studies of the present 7800 equipped with a 35 cubic yard bucket and a shorter boom length of 180 feet revealed that the increased bucket capacity meant that about 15 per cent deeper overburden could be handled on a level strip mining operation at no more cost per ton, company officials said.

Walking draglines have played an important role in the 43-year history of the strip mining industry because they can work in soft footing where a crawler machine could not operate. In recent years, walkers have become increasingly larger as shallow coal veins have become exhausted and it became necessary to cut deeper into the earth to recover coal.

But this new 7800 is the largest standard production walking dragline in the world to date.

Will Aid Mining

Marion officials said it will open the road to deeper strip mining operations on a profitable basis. The larger bucket means that more overburden can be handled in a shorter period of time. Also, the longer boom allows a greater range of operations in both digging and dumping before time is lost moving to a new location.

Several major changes were made in developing the new 7800. In addition to the 5 cubic yard greater bucket capacity and 20 foot longer boom length, the tub and frame were widened, a fourth swing motor was added, and the size of the shoes was increased. The tub was widened to handle the additional weight of the larger bucket and longer boom without any increase in bearing pressure. In fact, this heavier 7800 will be able to go any place where the old 7800 could go, company officials said. In line with widening the tub the upper frame was also widened to allow for the walking shoes to operate efficiently.

A fourth swing motor was added to gain full production with the larger bucket and boom. It will allow the speed of the swing mechanism to be synchronized with the hoist mechanism. All of these new 7800 walkers will be equipped with two oversize 500 horsepower hoist motors, which were optional on the older model.

First 2 Sent to Texas

First two of these new 7800 are being shipped to Texas to provide coal for power plants of industrial installations.

The longer boom will increase the dumping radius from 200 feet to 211 feet and dumping height from 65 feet to 78 feet. As in the old 7800, all rotating parts of the walking mechanism are mounted on brass bushings instead of being housed in iron plates which require constant manual lubrication during travel.

The single hitch, proved through the years and used on practically all draglines today, is used for the bucket.

The walking mechanism is similar to that in the old 7800. A large horizontal shaft which extends beyond the sides of the upper frame carries walking power to a pair of cranks connected by triangular shaped walking arms. These in turn are joined through swivel connections to the walking shoes. Each of the two shoes is 48 feet long and 9 feet wide.

Rotation of the shaft moves the shoes both horizontally and vertically in an arc that brings the shoes in contact with the ground and then raises the leading edge of the tub almost vertically. As the walking shaft continues to rotate, the trailing edge of the tub is drawn along the ground to move the machine.

At the start of a step, the base is moved slightly in a direction opposite the line of travel. The combination of this and the almost vertical raising of the leading edge of the tub quickly breaks any vacuum under the machine and lifts the leading edge of the tub above any depression in which it might have been working. As each walking step nears completion, the tub is lowered slowly and smoothly to the ground.

Length of each step is six feet, two inches and the machine's walking speed is .15 miles per hour.

Power to the walking mechanism is derived from two 425 horsepower drag motors.

Working weight of this new walking dragline giant with ballast and bucket is about 3,155,000.

A NUPTIAL HIGH MASS Saturday morning in St. Mary Catholic Church solemnized the marriage of Miss Jane Louise Baldauf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Baldauf of 228 S. Grand Ave. and George R. Berdes of Milwaukee. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Berdes of Milwaukee.

Officiating for the 10 o'clock ceremony was the pastor, the Rev. William J. Spickerman, V.F., who also was the celebrant of the mass sung by St. Mary choir with Miss Phyllis Malo at the organ.

Gold vases on the altars held white gladioli and asters and at the entrance of the sanctuary were tall white wicker floor vases filled with matching bouquets.

Rings exchanged by the couple in the double ring service were wide gold bands made by a friend of the bridegroom who is a resident of a monastery. Inscribed on the bride's band is pax (peace), and on the bridegroom's caritas, (charity).

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Swiss bordered organdy over taffeta, styled with a bouffant skirt graduated into a short train. The deep v-neckline was outlined in self cutouts and her long mitts matched her gown. Her full-length veil was held by a narrow jeweled ring and her bridal bouquet was a sheath of white roses.

MRS. GEORGE R. BERDES

Miss Gerry Dwyer of Cleveland was the maid of honor, Sheila Axe the bride's attendant and Miss Anna Marie Milia of Mishawake, Ind. and Miss Helen Hagerty, bridesmaids. The attendants wore identical gowns of sheer white pleated cotton over taffeta, fashioned with bouffant skirts and surplice bodices. The pushed-up sleeves were caught with lovers knots of white grosgrain ribbon and all wore short mitts. The maid of honor wore a crown of Happiness roses and the other attendants halos of the same flowers. All carried cascades of ivy with a single Happiness rose.

Lambert Napierala of Milwaukee served as best man and seating the guests were John Baldauf, brother of the bride, Richard Baldauf, a cousin, and Donald Klein and Philip Rozga of Milwaukee.

At the conclusion of the mass the bride placed her wedding bouquet on the altar of the Blessed Mother.

The reception was in the ballroom at Hotel Harding where tall baskets of white gladioli and asters and bouquets of vari-colored peonies formed the setting. The bride's cake was encircled with tulle, garlands of maidenhair fern and delphinium and pink roses, and the centerpiece for the serving table as a silver tureen filled with summer flowers. Hostesses were Mrs. Robert E. White, assisted by Mrs. Camden Weyer, Miss Elsie Iannetti of Milwaukee, Mrs. Roy Baldauf, Mrs. Helen Baldauf, Mrs. Robert Axe, Mrs. George Marshall, Mrs. Raymond Phillians, Miss Jeannine Dunn, Miss Mary Andrews, Miss Rita Cusick, Miss Patricia Cusick and Miss Madolyn Stuber. At the reception the bride carried a bouquet of white roses and blue delphinium.

When the couple left on a wedding trip through northern Wisconsin the bride chose for traveling a sky-blue pleated nylon two-piece suit, a white picture straw hat and accessories and wore a pink cymbidium orchid. They will make their home at 2414 W. Wells St., in Milwaukee.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary Parochial High School and was graduated this year from the college of journalism at Marquette University where she was a member of Beta Sigma Phi and Sigma Tau Delta Sororities. Mr. Berdes, also a graduate of Marquette University School of Journalism this year, is a member of Sigma Delta Chi. Both are employed on the Milwaukee Journal.

Guests from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rozga, Miss Rosemary Fiala, Miss Lois Ann Hajes, Miss Elsie Iannetti, Joseph Ritz, Michael McNamara, Neil Hamilton, Donald Dobbs and Robert Schienke of Milwaukee, and Miss Greta Berg of Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. White, and Chris and James Turoff, were hosts for the rehearsal party at the lodge on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. White, Harding Highway W. Miss Baldauf presented her attendants with perfume and gloves and her bride's attendant with a musical jewel case, and Mr. Berdes gave the best man and ushers leather initialed tie cases.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a baby grand piano and she presented him with her portrait painted by a Milwaukee artist.

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Exit Russell and Lumet

The very talented team of Charles Russell, producer, and Sidney Lumet, director, are leaving CBS-TV's "Danger" at the end of this season to concentrate exclusively on their other operation, "You Are There," the CBS-TV program which treats great moments of history as if they were news stories.

John Crosby

I hate to see them go but I must admit their reasons are sound. "Danger's" circle is a pretty narrow one, the stories having to do with violence and fate and skulduggery of one sort of another.

Within these confines, though, the Russell - Lumet team has succeeded better than anyone else I know in making almost an art form of a half hour drama of this sort.

A "Danger" story — not all of them but most of them — is first of all unusual in some way it avoids cliche and triteness. "Danger" characters are generally interesting, if lethal, people, and they are cast with actors who do not run to type.

A "Danger" bedroom looks as if it were slept in, and the kitchens as if they were cooked in. Small things but important in setting a mood and widely neglected elsewhere.

A RECENT "DANGER" opened with a shot of a real gone guy, one of those jazz goons, being driven out of his mind by a number on the juke box. He was hardly a likable chap but he certainly commanded attention as one of the social phenomena of our day. He was a completely minor character having little to do with the plot. This is an old trick of Frank Capra's a remarkably interesting but almost totally extraneous character will occupy the screen for a moment or two and then vanish, leaving a small but indelible mark on the picture.

The story was about a first-year medicial student, the son of a pharmacist, who persistently got sick at the sight of blood, so much so that there was some doubt that he could continue his medical studies.

Into his pharmacy, while he sits alone there one day, come a couple of bank robbers, one of them wounded. At gunpoint and without anesthetic, the young med student is forced to extract the bullet, while a radio, turned on as loudly as possible, drowns out the wounded man's anguished moans. Nothing could be better calculated to cure the young man's squeamishness forever.

IN THE MIDDLE of the operation, the blaring radio announces that a couple of bank robbers have killed an elderly man whom the boy mistakenly takes to be his father. So, he stabs the unwounded robber with a dose of sodium pentothal which puts him to sleep for a while. So, at the end of the half hour, the boy has captured a couple of bank robbers and is well on his way to being an honor student at that medical school.

Well, it isn't a story that will live forever in the annals of literature, but it is a very nice, ironic and neat little story. And it was almost perfectly done and perfectly paced.

The reason the Messrs. Russell and Lumet are quitting this sort of thing is because they feel they have explored this particular avenue about as thoroughly as it can be explored, that hereafter they would simply be repeating themselves.

"YOU ARE THERE", which is now off the air for the summer, was a rather sorry mess when it started off has picked up considerably but there is still vast room for improvement. This is the program in which the signing of the Magna Carta or the treachery of Benedict Arnold or some other significant event is covered as CBS would cover any story, a sort of mixture of drama and journalism, as it were.

An immense amount of research goes into each program to make it historically accurate and there are fortunately no genuflections to popular myths about our or anyone else's past.

The Magna Carta, it was brought out, hardly represented the will of the people it was rather the will of 45 powerful English nobles who held 39 baronies. The motives which brought that great document about, far from being exclusively high minded, were rather petty, including even the adultery of one noble.

STILL, IN SPITE of this attention to the hard facts of history or possibly because of it, "You Are There" drags its feet badly at times. You get an awful lot of what I can only refer to as bewiggled acting. Hang a cloak and sword on an actor and almost instantly he gets unmanageable.

Off camera (a happy thought) lurk members of CBS' competent news staff — Don Hollenbeck, Harry Marble, Winston Burdett—and others who interview these long dead figures as they would interview Sen. McCarthy, trying to dig into their motives, their thoughts, their secret knowledge., An awful lot of history is unfolded in these interviews, but somehow the show itself lacks form, lacks a coherent beginning and middle and end.

It's a very worthwhile enterprise, though, and if anyone can get the bugs out of it, Russell and Lumet are the boys. They'll be sorely missed on "Danger."

Tourist, Tax Lures Found In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UP)—Tourism and tax freedom are helping to solve the serious problems of over-population, under-employment and poverty in Puerto Rico, Uncle Sam's largest Caribbean island possession.

"No taxation without representation"—one of the rebellious battlecries of the American revolution—still is a living lesson to Puerto Ricans.

As Americans from Miami to Seattle sweat to complete their income tax forms and make their peace with the government each year, their fellow citizens in this vacation paradise go about their business as usual, not subject to federal taxes since the have no voting representation in the U. S. Congress.

Puerto Ricans are turning this circumstance into a powerful weapon to lure U. S. mainland capital to their dollar-poor island.

Tourism Big business

Mainland citizens are flocking in ever-increasing numbers to the permanently balmy climate here. A large number of them are businessmen and industrialists seeking to get away from federal taxes and also take advantage of local laws providing extremely liberal exemptions from modest insular taxes.

The migration of industry slowly but surley is helping to lessen the island's dependence on an agricultural economy and provide jobs for many of the more than 100,000 unemployed.

Tourism—the art of attracting pleasure - bent visitors, keeping them happy and inducing them to spend money—is a major government project here. It's aimed at visitors of all sizes, shapes and incomes.

The island's multi-million dollar tourist trade was pioneered by Pan American Airways which established Puerto Rico's first modern "guest house" hotel in 1946 and which still provides the most popular and inexpensive artery of tourist transportation from the mainland.

New Hotel

This comparatively new tourist island has been catching on rapidly in recent years. In the 1947-48 winter season for example, 5,000 mainlanders came here to swim and bask on the wide beaches, but by the 1951-52 season, the total was up to 97,000. Ninety per cent were air travelers, accoding to government figures.

Three years ago, the insular government built the fabulous Caribe Hilton Hotel. This ultra-modern, 300-room seaside hostelry is owned by the government and managed by the Hilton Hotel chain, one to of the many business enterprises to benefit by Puerto Rico's unusual tax situation.

The insular government of Gov. Luis Munoz Marin now is working on a "pilot project" of moderately priced hotels around the perimeter of Puerto Rico to provide space for the growing number of tourists who want to explore the interior of the island and its coasts.This "pilot poject" is to be developed without U. S. federal funds.

According to William H. MarKinnon, a government tourist official, Puerto Rico hopes to pay its own way as much as possible on the long road to modernization and prosperity. And the island hopes that the lure of ght taxes and an influx of tourist dollars will be major aids in doing the job.

Legislature

the budget bill is agreed on and signed.

House Republicans, who hold a whopping majority, took time out Tuesday in the middle of the House session to talk things over. They decided informally, Saxbe said, that Lausche's suggested 831 million dollar budget is very close to the amount the state will have available to spend in the next two years and should not be exceeded.

The House approved a budget nine millions under the governor's figure, but the Senate increased the total by 14 millions to a record total of 837 millions. And the conference committee tentatively has boosted the total to 838 millions by restoring about one million dollars for welfare department salaries.

Fire

was partly covered by insurance, Sens said. Firemen estimated loss to the house at $4,000 with the remaining loss to the contents. Miss Owens reported she had no insurance on her furniture and personal belongings destroyed in the fire.

An investigation into the cause of the fire was under way today by Sifritt and Finch. Sifritt said he feels there is no connection between this fire and the series of fires during June which are suspected to be the work of a firebug.

'Going Home,' Reds Say

SEOUL (AP)—"Our truce committee has agreed. We will be going home soon," a Chinese Communist front-line loudspeaker blared over the Western Front today.

But it didn't say what the truce committee has agreed to and the announcement was followed by music.

Temperatures headed for the 90s and higher over wide areas of the scorched belt after a night of unseasonal readings. Record highs for the date were set yesterday in many areas.

Rep. Price (D-Ill.), declaring that "unwarranted" cuts of five billion dollars in Air Force funds would mean "wrecking the Air Force," asked the House to restore $1,415,000,000.

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.) said he would propose tomorrow an amendment to restore $1,175,000,000 to the Air Force. This, he said, would be the amount requested by Gen. Hoyt S. front of the Hoekstra Coal and Supply.

The Galion Fire department answered two calls as the result of the storm. Hot wires fell on an automobile owned by J. Lawrence Maidens, parked near the Galion Iron Works and Manufacturing Co., about 5:15 p.m. A hole was burned in the side of the car. Lightning burned out the controls of a gas stove when it struck at a Second Ave. residence. At 5:30 p.m. firemen were called to the American Vault Co. where a transformer had started a minor blaze, and about an hour later they were summoned to a S. Boston St. residence where sparks from hot wires were lapping at the house. A large plate glass window fell out of the Galion Taber Co. department store, when the wind cracked it. In many sections of the city, residents had no electricity due to fallen and broken power lines.

Crews of city workmen, patrolmen, and volunteers, went to work immediately after the storm struck. Most damage was noticed in a belt several blocks wide, running north and south through the central part of the city.

200 Attend Luncheon

Marionites, Erie Men In "Get Acquainted" Meeting

The important place which Marion has in the Erie's operations was emphasized by the company's president, Paul W. Johnston of Cleveland, in giving the principal talk to representatives of Marion's business, industrial and civic interests at noon Tuesday.

He spoke following a luncheon at the Marion Country Club before an audience of approximately 200 made up of these community representatives, along with Erie officials, including Robert E. Woodruff, board chairman and former Erie president, and other members of the board of directors.

The luncheon was given by the Erie as a "get-acquainted" event in which the Marion guests could have the opportunity to personally meet and know the men in charge of Erie management.

Objectives Listed

Johnston said operating objectives of the Erie management include four main points. He listed them as:

FIRST, maintaining the best possible conditions for all Erie employees by assuring them good, decent and safe places to work and high standard residential, educational and recreational advantages in wholesome community surroundings for them and their families.

SECOND, giving customers of the Erie good service, the one and only commodity the railroad has to sell. It is essential to keep all employees constantly aware that the future of the Erie depends upon maintenance of such service, Johnston said.

THIRD, serving the interests of stockholders by operating the railroad efficiently, so that those whose money is invested will receive an adquate return on their investment. Johnston called attention to the fact that this sort of management has made possible the payment of annual dividends since 1941. He stressed the necessity of maintaining this record so that the company's credit can be kept on a sound basis.

FOURTH, giving recognition to the railroad's responsibility to the public. In doing this, Johnston said, the Erie urges its employees to fill an active role in the life and activities of the communities in which they live. He pointed out that the company consistently performs its part in this program by contributing to community campaigns and giving every possible support to all movements and projects designed for community welfare.

Some Marion Trained Leaders

Johnston commented on the role which Marion has had as an important training center for men who have risen to high executive positions in the Erie's management. He made especial mention of Ray Randall, who started in Marion as an Erie yard clerk and advanced to the second highest post in the company's executive staff, that of vice president in charge of operations. Randall died little more than a year ago at his home in Cleveland.

Tribute was also paid by Johnston to the memory of John Condon, whose railroad career started in Galion and who later came to Marion to become the Erie's general yardmaster. In the years following his advance continued until he reached the post of assistant to the president, then the second highest executive office in the company's list. Condon died several years ago.

Talk by Woodruff

Another speaker was Robert E. Woodruff of Cleveland, the former Erie president and now chairman of the board, in whose career with the company Marion also figured prominently. He lived here several years while superintendent of the company's Kent division. He related some humorous reminiscences about his arrival here during the presidential campaign of 1912 and expressed appeciation of the numerous friendships formed while living here.

Spokesman for Marion and its business interests, M. Paul

Speaking on behalf of Marion Hunt, president of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, voiced the community's appreciation of the Erie's great contributions to its growth and advancement. He cited examples of the high standard service performed by the Erie in providing efficient transportation service for Marion's business and industries.

Employee Efficiency Cited

Robert H. Lewis of Marion, superintendent of the Erie's Kent division, presided during the program as master of ceremonies and in addition to introducing the speakers he reviewed development of the dieselization program which the Erie started in Marion nine years ago.

He praised the Marion corps of Erie employees, now numbering more than 1,200, for their loyalty to the company and the public through maintenance of efficient and conscientious service. He also called attention to the fact that many of the employees have gained advancement to high positions as the result of the training they received here and demonstration of their ability to perform important duties.

Get-Acquainted Session

All the speakers and members of the board of directors were seated at the main luncheon table and each was given an individual introduction to the audience by Lewis.

Personal get - acquainted introductions and conversations took place during a social session which preceded the luncheon.

Following the luncheon program most of those in attendance visited the new Erie Disel Shop to take part in the public open house.

As the tour came to the end, the guests were served ice cream, coffee, and soft drinks. For the children, there were comic books explaining the workings of the railroads in this country and free balloons. For those who wished it, a ride on one of the gondola cars from the shop to the wash rack and back again was provided. There were two gondola cars attached to one of the diesel switch engines and each car was capable of carrying 200 children at a time.

Free bus service was provided to and from the shop. These buses carried the bulk of the persons going to the plant.

uled to arrive in Salamanca, N. Y. this morning.

Officials said that the crowd would have been even larger had schools been in session Tuesday. Demian said "We could have had 400 school children here in buses in the morning."

The visitors yesterday started their tour by going through one of the locomotives. The panels had been removed showing the wiring system and the engines which are the heart of the diesel-electric system.

They then went through one of the training cars which the Erie uses to instruct prospective engineers and conductors. In this car were the controls found in the locomotives, slide and movie projectors, cut away engines, and air-conditioning controls which the new employees must master before assuming their duties.

See New Caboose

After the training car, the visitors were led into the newest style caboose on the line. This is the bay-window caboose which is already in operation on some of the Erie freight trains and will soon be seen on all freights on the line.

The first display seen after going through the three cars was one of the safety equipment used by workers at the Marion shop. Included in this display were the helmet which stopped a flying rivet from splitting the skull of one of the workers and the safety shoes, one of which prevented a worker from losing his foot when a heavy piece of metal fell on it. The usefulness of this equipment can be appreciated from the fact that the Marion shop has had only one reportable injury during the last three years.

The visitors next saw the four-way radio hookup which connects the moving trains with the stations along the route as well as the engine with the caboose. The display was in operation and the people at the shop could hear the conversations which were being carried on between the Marion station and incoming trains.

Other Displays

Other displays showed the working parts of air compressors, valve assemblies, air brakes, steam generators and cylinders. Also shown were most of the testing equipment used in the overhaul and maintainance of the diesels. This included hand tools and electric testing devices which can spot hidden flaws and cracks in cylinder blocks and wheel trucks.

Persons interested in electrical equipment spent sometime viewing a four-by-eight foot sign which gave the diagram of the 10,224 feet of wiring used in every diesel locomotive. The panels of electric wiring were also shown.

Five stripped-down engines were on display giving the visitors an idea of the size and complexity of the machines. Each of them weighs 25 tons and are removed from the locomotives by overhead cranes which carry them to the repair shop.

2 More Red Planes Shot Down Near Seoul

SEOUL (AP)—A U. S. Navy pilot tonight shot down two small communist planes which attempted to raid the Seoul area, after bagging two others Monday night.

Lt. Guy P. Bordelon of Sunnyvale, Calif., reported the two small planes of the type which has been making night raids were blasted out of the sky near Kimpo, Seoul's airport.

Bordelon, who flies a propeller-driven Corsair, had shot down his first two Monday night about 50 miles south of Seoul.

Eisenhower

lican Party is gradually showing it can take over the responsibilities it inherited and can carry them out. This comment was touched off by a question as to whether he is satisfied with the treatment given his program in Congress by the Republican majority.

Plainly taken aback, the president said he didn't think that was much of a question, adding it is too general to be answered. But he went on to make his remarks about the party's showing it can take over its responsibilities.

It is not as important that Congress should carry out all of his recommendations, the President said, as that it should bring before the people a progressive program of needed legislation.

Eisenhower volunteered his comments on the disturbances behind the Iron Curtain at the beginning of this first meeting with newsmen in two weeks.

He called attention to speeches by West German Chancellor Adenauer to the effect that the rumblings of discontent in the satellite nations disprove Red claims of a "workers paradise" and demonstrate the repressions of tyranny that have been put on the people.

The revolts seem to spread like wildfire with no advance planning, Eisenhower said.

These incidents, he continued, re-enforce the idea that when a prople have known freedom they rate it as of top importance and feel that life itself is worth spending to regain freedom.

The sternly repressed uprisings, Eisenhower said, must excite our pity as well as our admiration.

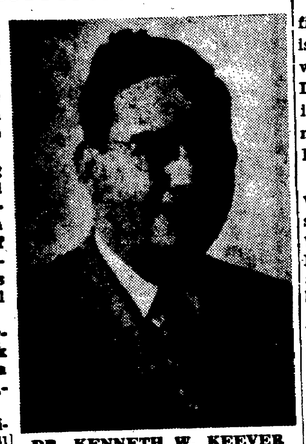
Reports $28,000 Pledged for Center

Dr. Keever Tells Rotary Of Polio Foundation



DR. KENNETH W. KEEVER

Pledges and donations to the Magnetic Springs Foundation have now reached a total of more than $28,000, according to Dr. Kenneth W. Keever, a trustee in the organization and a spark plug in the drive to establish the polio treatment center.

Speaking at the weekly meeting of the Marion Rotary Club held Tuesday noon at the Harding Hotel, he said that Richwood area residents have donated a total of $3,000 and have pledged an additional $24,000. Another $1,000 has been collected by the Marion Real Estate Board.

Total estimated cost of purchasing and remodeling the Park Hotel in Magnetic Springs into a suitable treatment center is $250,000, he said.

Drives in the larger municipalities are just now starting to roll and it is from the large cities such as Columbus, Cleveland, and Akron that the major donations are expected, he said.

The campaign for funds began April 7 when a prospectus and pledge cards were mailed out to various organizations in cities located in the northeastern section of the U. S.

In his talk, Dr. Keever told how he became interested in establishing a "Warm Springs of the North" at Magnetic Springs.

After his daughter Carola, now 15, was stricken with polio in 1947, he became interested in the work performed at Warm Springs, Ga.

Takes Special Training

He began to wonder why such a center could not also be established in Ohio. After discussing the matter with Warm Springs officials, he discontinued his medical practice at Richwood and began his training to eventually open such a center.

On completion of this training, he chose Magnetic Springs as the location for the center and then began the campaign to establish it.

He noted that the savings in travel expenses for polio victims who must travel to Warm Springs would soon pay for the cost of the Magnetic Springs Foundation. While his daughter was under treatment at Warm Springs, it cost him and his wife better than $300 each time they went to visit her, he said.

In the present drive to get as any people as possible behind the organization, Mrs. Frank Lausche, wife of Governor Lausche, has been asked to serve on the Board of Governors of the Foundation, he said.

Basil O'Connor, in charge of the National Foundation for polio, recently informed Dr. Keever that as soon as the Park Hotel is purchased and remodeled, the National Foundation will assist in providing special treatment equipment.

Cites Need for Center

Pointing to the need for the quire about a year and a half treatment center, he said that Warm Springs now has a backlog of some 1,500 patients waiting for treatment and it will require about a year and a half before they may all be admitted.

He also said that the number of polio cases definitely is on the increase and that officials of the National Foundation feel more centers similar to Warm Springs and the proposed Magnetic Springs center are needed.

Asked what effect gamma globulin will have on such centers, he answered that at least during his lifetime there will be a need for them. At present, the effects of gamma globulin in the treatment of polio are not too positive, he said. However, it is expected a vaccine may be developed by 1955 or 56 after which time the number of new cases of polio may begin to decline, he said.

Visitors coming to the proposed center will bring an additional $500,000 to $750,000 a year into Magnetic Springs area, he said.

Dr. Keever was introduced by George Stafford, program chairman.

Visiting Rotarians introduced were: the Rev. W. C. Eyster of Bowling Green, the Rev. R. W. McNauf of Cardington, Fred Helmick of Fairmont, W. Va., and David Rainey of Delaware. Other guests were: the Rev. Walter Theobald of Sullivan, Ill., Albert Grooms of Richwood, C. R. Martin of Marion, Dr. M. F. Axthelm of Caledonia, Maurice Jewett of Milwaukee, and John Snallshaw of Cleveland.

Odell Thompson was in charge of the meeting.

Hunt Boy, 14, In Slaying Of Man, Wife

STURGEON BAY, Wis. (AP)—Two first-degree murder warrants were issued yesterday as the manhunt was pressed for 14-year-old James Duranty, sought in the grisly knifings of his friends and next-door neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Harris.

There was no new clue to the whereabouts of the husky youngster, who had been a student at the Westmont, Ill., Catholic seminary. He had been notified two weeks ago he could not return next fall because his grades were too low.

The son was missing from his bedroom yesterday morning. His parents found a note:

"Dear Mom, I killed Mr. and Mrs. H. You can call the police and tell them in Michigan because that's where I'm headed."

Police found the mutilated bodies of Harris, 53, a newspaper and radio executive, and his wife Grace, 50, in their blood-spattered ransacked house. The Harris' 1949 sedan was missing. A bloody 8-inch knife and James' gory clothing were found in the Duranty yard. A religious medal identified as his was in the Harris house.

What Pin Stores Started

By FRANK TRIPP

The curbside pinwheel store is almost extinct. Only an occasional lemonade stand survives the early days of youngster merchandising. Sixty years ago kids blazed the trail for the chain stores.

The pin store business grew to quite extensive proportions in the 90s. There were retailers, wholesalers, branch stores and traveling salesmen. Not only was the pinwheel the major item in stock, but the lowley common pin was the medium of exchange. Mothers had to lock their pins in sewing machine drawers.

Everything offered at pinwheel stands along residential - streets was made of paper, some quite elaborate creations. Youth's Companion and St. Nicholas carried instructions which the kids followed with amazing skill.

The pinwheel, made from a square of paper cut diagonally from the corners, looped to the center and pinned to a stick, is about the simplest homemade toy ever devised. Elaboration of it and color glorification borned the pinwheel store.

Flashily colored glazed paper was a prime requisite. Trade followed the kids who had color and gloss to sell. Little merchants whose parents bought the most and best clothes had the edge; from the fancy wrappings and linings which then came generously with every clothing, shoe and packing box. Thus the bon ton districts had the flossiest stands.

To serve the trade in the more lowly neighborhoods, the smart back streeters shopped these bon ton stands, brought back gay creations, upped the price and supplied kids who had no bicycles and couldn't shop around.

That created the wholesaler. Traveling salesmen arrived regularly with samples of what was being shown on West Church St. Soon back street stands also displayed the latest—and became "shopping centers."

COMPETITION gave the big shots, who controlled the flashy paper supply, a bright idea. Branch stores would lick this small stand inroad on their business.

They didn't quite dare open stands where neighborhood kids might resort to reprisals, besides they had to have a shopping center location; a curb in front of a native's house. So they cooked up deals with the amenable, appointed exclusive retailers and gave 'em inside prices; "factory controlled branches."

Does it all sound like anything you've heard of in modern business? Believe it or not, kids were doing it back when the Atlantic & Pacific and Grand Union were selling from wagons. The pinwheel stands were the first multiple outlets in almost any city. Did a child lead the way—who knows?

I HAD a "branch" right across the street from the man who ran the only A & P store in an area that later had a half dozen. He was paid about $15 a week as manager, had to earn the rest through commissions on store sales.

This man inserted what is believed to be the first A & P advertisement in a newspaper. The company wouldn't advertise, so he bought a half column ad and paid for it out of his commissions.

The ad paid off, upped his earnings. He bought more and bigger ads and profited more and more. The Elmira store was making monkeys of bigger stores and A & P moguls sat up and took notice of Dan O'Neill's enterprise.

DAN used to stop by my little pinwheel stand and talk kindly to me. I never sold him a pinwheel but we became close friends and I sold him plenty of paper products in later years.

This pioneer who showed the way to the world's biggest retailer died a regional A & P manager; buying double trucks of advertising in dozens of newspapers for scores of stores, and bought many from me.

Now Dan's son pulls my teeth—or did.

Crime Increasing

By George Sokolsky

It is not too easy to understand why crime is so steadily on the increase in the United States. J. Edgar Hoover's "Uniform Crime Reports" for 1952 shows an increase in crime for that year of 8.2 per cent over 1951.

SOKOLSKY

The large rises are in the categories of murder, negligent manslaughter, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and auto thefts.

The incidence of crime is too often explained as due to unfortunate environmental conditions, poverty, bad housing, lack of playgrounds, juvenile boredom.

These physical factors are undoubtedly important, but they have steadily been improved in most of our large cities.

SLUMS EXISTED in my childhood in New York. I recently passed through one of the worst slum areas in that city, East Harlem.

Comparing it with the area where much of my childhood was spent, I find East Harlem as bad as the worst. On the other hand, other slum areas have practically been wiped out by new housing and playgrounds.

It is interesting to note that crime in cities has steadily increased since 1937, no matter what improvements have been made in environmental conditions. Also, that rural crime has increased at a slightly higher rate than in the cities.

What is the nature of the American rural environment that crime should increase in areas where slum conditions do not exist?

The criminal mind is not easy to understand.

For instance, with wages as high as they are and with work available, why should anyone want to be a pickpocket? The risk is great the profits often small. Yet, in large cities, pickpocketing, particularly in dense shopping areas, increases and the skills, requiring considerable training and practice, are improved.

RECENTLY I read of a man being killed by a pair who found one dollar on him. He was an old and decrepit man who was not likely to have a sizable amount on his person. Why did this pair risk conviction for murder?

It used to be said that crime flourished where ignorance was general. This country has had more than a century of compulsory education.

Every child, in most states, is required to attend at least the public schools, and in some states, the age limit is so set that the child has to go to high school.

There should be fundamental literacy in most parts of the country.

Literacy is no measure of education or of character yet it gives to the individual an opportunity to read, if not the great books, at least the headlines of newspapers, which prove that crime does not pay. Yet, knowing that seems to be no deterrent for the criminal mind, which always tends to believe that he can get away with it.

THE INCIDENCE of broken homes cannot be ignored. The most recent figures would show that the United States has the highest divorce rate in the world — one divorce in every four marriages.

Each divorce, where there are children, involves adjustments in the child's psychology which are not only difficult but are often hidden from the elders.

The resentments of children are not always expressed nor, when expressed, always understood by parents. "He'll get over it" is a rationalization which may satisfy the parent, but does not solve the child's problems.

Competition among parents for the love of a child in a broken family may damage a child's character forever.

The father who competes by bribery the mother who constantly denounces an ex-husband; the multiplicity of fathers and mothers and the child's attempts to adjust to each new one provides no strengthening benefits to the child.

It is difficult to analyze the causes for the weakness of religion as a living force in American life.

WE HAVE a great many religions and are, per capita, probably the most church-going of peoples. Whereas in many European and South American countries, the church is principally for women, in the United States, men go to church regularly as well.

Yet, crime increases steadily. It would be interesting if a grant were made by one of the foundations to study the relationship or schooling and religious activities to crime. A sort of Kinsey report on the backgrounds of criminals, particularly juveniles, would perhaps show something.

With all the facilities for character-building in this country and with constantly improving environmental conditions, crime ought not to be on the increase.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS—A surprise party was held here Monday night by the Y Men's Club in honor of Edward B. Hagaman, who has been secretary of the YMCA here for the past 25 years.

Presentation of a mahogany dining table to Mr. and Mrs. Hagaman was made by Robert Gosnell, club president. Hagaman came here in 1928 from Steubenville, where he had been connected with the "Y."

Among the surprise guests at the party, held in the parish house of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and attended by 140, were the Hagaman's sons, Donald, who is associated with Western Reserve University in Cleveland, and Jack, who is on the staff of the YMCA in Sandusky.

Dr. L. L. Fisher, local dentist, was toastmaster and Clarence W. Ahl, Bucyrus attorney and former Crawford County Common Pleas Court judge, reviewed the work of the Hagamans during their 25 years here.

ENJOY THE FIGHTS TONIGHT AT THE RITZ BAR AND GRILL...

Tonight Bob Baker of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Bob Satterfield of Chicago, Ill., will square off in a 10-round heavyweight match. Baker, former National Golden Gloves champion and currently the fourth ranking heavyweight in the country, has been described by sports writers as having "everything." Satterfield, a former light heavyweight, is fighting his first bout in the heavyweight ranks after a layoff of more than a year. He's a good boxer but we predict Baker to win. . . .

Paper on Erie Radiophone Wins Award

$1,000 Prize Goes To Railroad's Head Of Communications

CLEVELAND—A technical paper by Francis H. Menagh, superintendent of communications for the Erie Railroad, describing the installation problems and operations of the Erie's four-way train radiotelephone system, presented at the Pan American Railway Congress in Washington, has been awarded a $1,000 prize.

His paper was entitled "Use of Radio Communication on Freight Trains, from Fixed Point to Trains and Engines, for Yard and Terminal Opertaion, and for Communication with Harbor Craft and Other Floating Units."

The Pan American Railway Congress was instituted for the purpose of providing a means for the interchange of ideas and solutions of problems which will bring advancement to the railway industry in the Western Hemisphere. Paul W. Johnston, Erie president, said in explaining the significance of the award, "We are proud that this international organization considered this report of the development of the Erie's four-way train radiotelephone system into the most complete and comprehensive on any railroad in the world as meriting the $1,000 award."

What System Does

The Erie radiotelephone communications system provides for (1) constant communication between the locomotive and caboose personnel; (2) contact between crews of moving trains; (3) conversations from moving trains to way stations, and (4) communication between adjacent way stations.

Erie officials say the installation over the entire main line extending from New York to Chicago has contributed to the efficient and safe operation of trains, especially freight trains which are frequently a mile long. It was pointed out that a great deal of lost time in freight movements has been eliminated because train crews can discuss any operating problem without reducing speed or stopping, crews of other trains within range can hear the discussions and become informed of any irregular operations, and dispatchers can be consulted for instructions or emergency changes in train orders.

In previous practice, crews had to walk great distances in all kinds of weather to reach either end of the long freight trains for these conferences. Additional time was lost while a telephone was located along the tracks to contact the dispatcher's office for instructions, it was explained.

Used in Freight Yards

Two-way radio systems have been installed in the Erie's principal freight yards where the assembling of freight trains must be accomplished in the shortest possible time. These installations include Hammond, Ind.; Chicago, Youngstown, Sharon, Pa.; Jamestown, N. Y., and Buffalo.

In the New York Harbor, where the Erie operates 257 vessels, tug boat captains and the dispatcher can be instantly contacted by radio. In this way, tugs can be instructed to stop at any of the many piers or ocean-going ships in the harbor.

Preparing Italian Dishes

REAL ITALIAN spaghetti with tomato and mushroom sauce.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Such a melting pot of recipes this country is! And some of the most savory of these our Italian-American heritage.

Want to serve your family hearty bowls of Minestrone—that flavorsome collection of vegetables and pasta and meat stock? Yearning to turn out a skilletful of Chicken Cacciatora with its rich tomato sauce? Or would you like to plan an elegant Antipasto as a first course for a supper party, or a hot Pizza for a late evening snack?

To help you do it, Garibaldi LaPolla has written "Italian Cooking for the American Kitchen" (Wilfred Funk, $3.) As persuasion, he says that nowadays almost every food market carries a substantial line of Italian supplies and "the chances are that a cook in Naples would have a harder time getting the necessities for everyday meals than an American shopper in any town in the United States."

Public school principal and author of several novels, Mr. LaPolla has made a hobby of collecting recipes for Italian dishes and cooking them for his family and guests. He writes with zest and in a friendly informative way—whether he's explaining how to roast peppers for Antipasto or how to concoct and serve that foamy egg dessert Zabaglione. Although Mr. LaPolla says he is "the scion of a long line of cooks from that part of Southern Italy often called 'the Ankle,' " his book has the virtue of being representative of the cooking done all over Italy.

Here's a delicious example, from Mr. L.APolla's book, of real Italian spaghetti sauce. To cook the spaghetti to go with it, add 3 tablespoons salt to 6 quarts rapidly boiling water. Gradually add 1½ pounds spaghetti so that water continues to boil; cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender and drain in a colander.

Tomato and Mushroom Sauce

What you have here will be sufficient to pour over 1½ pounds of spaghetti and will serve 6 persons. Grated cheese makes a desirable topping. Caution: Except for a short period of fast cooking to allow for evaporation of some of the liquid from the mushrooms, the cooking should be slow.

What you need to serve 6:

1 pound of button mushrooms thoroughly washed (if other mushrooms than button are used, slice thin)
2 onions
2 cloves of garlic
1 No. 3 can of tomatoes
1 No. 2 can of tomato juice
½ can of tomato paste, and an equal amount of water,
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons of olive oil

What you do:

Bring olive oil to a high heat. Soften onion and garlic in it, but do not brown. Add mushrooms, cover, and cook 15 minutes—very slowly, stirring occasionally. Remove cover and salt slightly. Cook 5 minutes longer at a high heat and stir.

Now add tomatoes, bring to a boil and cook slowly for 15 minutes. Add tomato juice, boil, and cook 15 minutes. Add tomato paste and water, boil, and cook 30 minutes. Salt and pepper to taste.

Woman Hurt In Accident Near Crestline

A Chicago woman was taken to Crestline Emergency Hospital at 4:30 a.m. today by a passing motorist after the car driven by her husband failed to negotiate a curve on Route 30-N, three miles west of Crestline, and went off the road.

Investigating state highway patrolmen from Marion said the woman, Mrs. Emma Marchioro, 41, suffered a sprained left shoulder. Her husband, Tranquillo Marchioro, 57, escaped uninjured. The car was removed by a wrecker. About 20 feet of farm fence and pole belonging to the Ohio Northern Telephone Co. of Crestline were torn down by the car.

Truck driver James Sirbello, 43, of Cleveland was arrested on a charge of following too closely and was to appear in Municipal Court this morning after his truck outfit struck a car driven by Martha A. Stoneburner, 17, of 380 Park Blvd., Marion. The mishap occurred on State Route 4, two miles south of Marion, at 2:25 p.m. Tuesday, when the Stoneburner car slowed for traffic ahead and the truck, in attempting to avoid hitting the back of the Stoneburner car, swerved out and caught the left rear fender of the car. Moderate damage was reported.

Patrolmen issued a citation to Robert E. Bauer, 29, of near LaRue, for failing to yield the right of way, after his car and one driven by Ellis Bosart Jr., 25 of near West Mansfield collided at the intersection of Marion County Roads 2 and 49, two miles southwest of LaRue, at 6:50 p.m. Tuesday. The right rear bumper and fender of the car were moderately damaged while the right front fender, grille, bumper, door, windshield and hood were heavily damaged on the Bosart car. Bauer was cited to appear in Municipal Court today.

NEW YORK (AP)—Railroads jumped ahead today and needled the entire stock market into a modest advance.

Gains in the rail section were substantial, running to between 1 and 3 points at the outside. Elsewhere, however, fractional advances were the rule.

Higher were steels, motors, coppers, and oils. Many chemicals and utilities were backward as were some air lines. Other major sections of the market were steady or slightly mixed.

Advancing stocks included Santa Fe, New York Central, Southern Railway, Illinois Central, Atlantic Coast Line, Amerada Petroleum, Western Union, Kennecott Copper, Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, General Electric, and Allied Chemical.

Lower were Eastern Air Lines, American Telephone, Air Reduction, Union Carbide, American Tobacco, and Caterpillar Tractor.

"new angles, new meanings" which were rejected by Robertson.

He said Rhee agreed to write "in his own hand" another statement of South Korea's stand on a truce and Robertson is awaiting this statement.

The source made it clear the Robertson mission is the only one which will negotiate with Rhee before an armistice is signed. If this attempt fails, there will be no more.

There was no official confirmation of reports that a mutual security pact has been drafted, but a U. S. news correspondent saw a document titled "Military Alliance Between the United States and the Republic of Korea" lying on a table in the South Korean Defense Ministry.

OGDEN, Utah (UP)—A train took Victor E. Degn for an unscheduled ride. He was standing beside his auto with a door open when moving freight cars knocked Degn into the back seat, slammed the door, then dragged the vehicle down the track. He suffered only a bruised hand.

lief requirements" in friendly nations.

Taking issue with Democrats who said the President was asking for blank check authority to give away some three billion dollars worth of government-held farm stocks, Knowland said Eisenhower expected Congress to provide "appropriate limitations."

But Russell insisted the President's proposal was comparable, on an international scale, to the plan advanced by former Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan for dealing with surplus farm supplies. Congress spurned the Brannan Plan.

Russell said Eisenhower was asking for "absolute" authority to dispose of the government-held surpluses at whatever price or in whatever way he wanted, with the taxpayers committed to footing the bill.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) attacked Humphrey's amendment as "the most monstrous giveaway" in the government's history. Gore said he didn't think former Vice President Henry Wallace "ever had as wild a dream."

Millionaire Vanderbilt Divorces 5th Wife

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., son of the late great railroad builder, divorced his fifth wife yesterday.

His attorney said the 55-year-old millionaire "has no plans whatsoever for future marital adventures."

Vanderbilt broke his latest marital tie, with Patricia Murphy Wallace Vanderbilt, 33, on grounds of extreme cruelty. They were married at Greenwich, Conn., in 1948.

Report on Bermuda

By Hal Boyle

HAMILTON, Burmuda (AP)—Last notes from a Bermuda scrapbook:

One of the world's most unusual husbands lives in the warm sea waters here.— he doesn't know whether he is the father or the mother in the family.

This confused fellow is the male sea horse. After mating he receives the eggs from the lady sea horse in a special pouch. He incubates them himself, goes through complex labor pains, and then gives birth to some 200 baby sea horses, each a tiny swimming replica of himself.

"Well, dear, what do you think of that?" giggled a young honeymoon wife who heard this story of sea horse family life during a tour of the aquarium here.

"I don't think," replied her husband, "the arrangement will ever become popular on dry land."

Bermuda, a pleasure resort is actually a vast graveyard—a marine cemetery made from billions of calcareous skeletons of little sea creatures called coral.

Most people think coral is a form of plant life but it is an animal. And Bermuda owes its existence to an odd fact: A baby coral doesn't leave its home. It builds upon its parent's head, and its offspring build on top of it.

Beneath the ocean surface lies a 15,000-foot volcano that died a million years ago. It was the action of billions of coral, building upon each other through the ages, that raised above the ocean waves the 159 islands that make up Bermuda, and gave it its famous pink sands.

The calcified coral remains also are used to make Bermuda's houses. The material can be sawed like wood. But once exposed to the weather it grays and turns stone hard.

Death feeds on life, life feeds on death. And nothing seems to me to show this relationship more than a tourist here lolling at ease on a beach made through eons by myriads of sea mites. He stretches out comfortable on these legions of infinitesimal forgotten bones, sifts them through his fingers, and thinks:

"Wonder what I'll do tonight?"

And out beneath the blue water the descendants of the skelton sands he lies on are still building . . . building. . . building. When he is dead and gone, when his joys, and griefs and skeleton are long hidden in dust, the little coral will go on building, as they have through all time.

(Editor's note: Boyle, if you think you are making us feel sorry for you, lying there on a warm Bermuda beach, you'd better try another tack. What is the hotel charging you?)

(Boyle's note: For two—$34 a day. And that ain't coral. Now you got me feeling blue.)

Bermuda fact sheet: The islands import 90 per cent of their food supply, including Bermuda onions, which now come from Texas. . . The largest crop here is tourists, followed by lilies, bananas, fish and fresh vegetables. . . Milk is high because cow feed has to be brought over from the mainland . . . Anybody who leaves a shower tap running is public enemy number one: Fresh water often must be imported from New York . . . Water is in such short supply that house roofs are built pyramid shape to catch and channel the rain into tanks. . .

The population is nearing 50,000, about a third white, two thirds colored. . . There is no such thing as a native Bermudian. . . The islands were uninhabited when discovered. . . Mixed into the general population is the blood stream of north Amercian Indians, numbers of whom once were brought here as slaves. . .

Like Ireland and Hawaii, Bermuda has no snakes. . . Some 14 varieties of sharks cruise its waters. . . The reefs keep them away from the bathers (sharks detest people anyway), but unfortunately don't keep the fishermen from getting at the sharks.

Got $9,600 State Dept. Job, Nothing to Do

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Thomas R. Fisher says the State Department provided him with a title and a $9,600-a-year salary in February, 1952—but since then nobody has given him any specific work to do.

Dr. Fisher, former Syracuse University professor, is assistant director of education and training for the Technical Co-operation Administration "on paper," he told a House government operations subcommittee yesterday.

He also said:

He never had more than a three-minute conversation with his superior, Dr. Frank E. Sorenson, who resigned a month ago as chief of the education section.

He was never told what TCA's formal educational plan was.

Sorenson was absent from Washington 34 per cent of the time, while "a great variety of people or sometimes nobody" ran the section.

Some diseases such as diabetes may cause poor sight.

County Agent Speaks To Galion Rotary

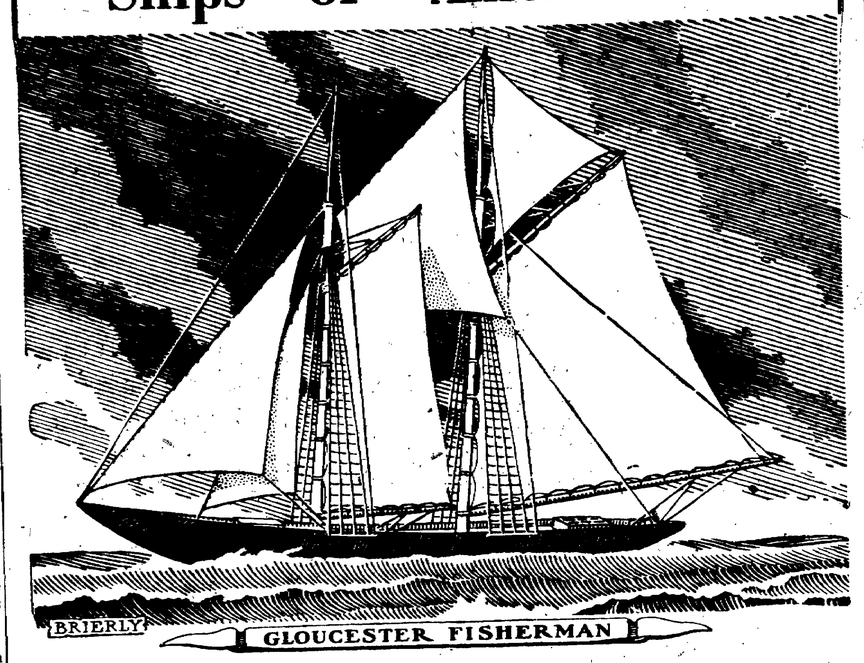
Special to The Star

GALION—The duties of his office were explained by Russell L. Miller, Crawford County extension agriculture agent, when he was speaker, Monday night, at the dinner-meeting of the Rotary Club at Hotel Talbott. The program was in charge of Lawrence Bennett.

The speaker said that his work with farmers is of an educational nature. The position originated when Congress passed a law in 1870 for establishment of a land grant college in each state. Later liberal arts and other colleges were added to the land grant college. In 1917, he said, a law provided for agriculture extension service in each of these colleges, and agriculture agents were employed in each county of each state. While the agent is employed by the state university, his salary is paid from federal and state funds. Office help of the agent is paid by the county commissioners.

The farm production of Northern Ireland brought in 74 million dollars in the 1938-9 period and almost 229 million in 1951-2.

Ships of America ... 16



AP Newsfeatures

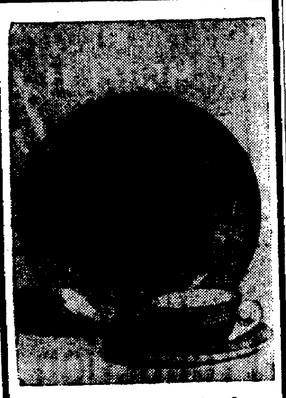
Although the oceans had been dominated for years by steam ships, the Gloucester Fishing Fleet still operated mainly under sail, until about 1916. Leaving port for the Grand Banks they often staid out for weeks. Upon reaching the fishing grounds, all but the captain and cook took to the dories, set their trawls, anchoring one end; then went back, hauling in the fish. The schooner followed along, picking up each dory with its catch at the end of the day. There were risks in this business. Sometimes a dory was lost in the fog and sometimes, cut in two and sent to the bottom in this same deadly fog, by an ocean liner. After the catch was complete, all sail was set, to be the first home and to get the best prices. The necessity for speed created the Knockabout Fishing Schooner, with lines like a yacht and a long bow overhang in place of a bowsprit, making it easier and safer to furl headsails in rough weather. The Helen B. Thomas (in the sketch), built in Essex, Mass. 1901-2 was the first of the "knockabouts".

The World Today

Britain Looks for Leader

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill had been at the heart of the world so long it was hard to accept the sudden news that he had to take a month's rest, which meant his clock was running down.



Information from Britain about his condition has been vague. Fatigue, it was said. So he may improve and return to his duties. Or he may not. And if he does not the English-speaking people have lost a rallying-point and a shield.

He had stood equally indomitable against the darkness of fascism and the medievalism of communism. In his own eloquence and courage he symbolized the British character.

More than that he symbolized the indestructible and unterrorized human character which rises to its fullest development in a free society, for which Churchill fought against the enslaving tyranny of right and left.

He was a genius, born in an island which has produced more than its share of geniuses who had character and courage and eloquence. But the vitality of any nation is not unlimited. History is full of nations which lost theirs.

It is possible that a great man, by sheer force of will and leadership, can pull a whole people, even a tired people, up to a height unity and determination they could not have achieved without him.

It is also possible that a man who appeared to be providing supreme leadership, like Churchill, was only reflecting the tremendous will of his people who gave him popular support because he so truly represented them.

How much of Britain's achievements these past 14 years was due to Churchill and how much to the British people themselves may remain one of the unanswered questions of history.

The answer may be found if Churchill cannot return to his old position of leadership. For that would be a test of the British people. He was such a towering figure no one of his stature is in sight to take his place.

The British people must find from among themselves new and younger leadership. If they still have their great and ancient vitality undiminished it will prove itself in their ability, under new leadership, to retain their stabilty in a fast-changng world and even prosper through the changes.

In Churchill's lifetime the British fought two world wars, saw their empire fall apart and themselves descend from a truly No. 1 world power to a power second to that of the United States and Russia.

Still, as a people, they remained intact, avoided chaos and confusion, and stood firm against the two powers, Germany and Russia, which they knew would have destroyed the freedom they had spent centuries obtaining.

The post-Churchill leadership, to be successful at all, must have popular support. But what direction will it take: Left or right? Churchill is leader of the Conservative party, which had been beaten by the Labor party after the war and ever since Churchill's Conservatives beat them the last time, the Laborites have considered themselves out of power only temporarily. The Labor party itself is split into factions, one wanting Britain linked to the U. S., the other less friendly in this direction.

If Churchill should not return to his place at the head of the government, his Conservatives will run the country. Perhaps the first test of where the people want to go will be at the next British elections.

Ronda Bibler Wins Honor

Former Marion Girl Outstanding Majorette

A former Marion girl, Ronda Bibler, who has made many appearances and received outstanding honors as a drum majorette, recently was chosen as the most outstanding drum majorette in the country.

This marked the second time in succession she has received the high distinction.

Ronda, who is 17, lives in Greenbelt, Md., a suburb of Washington, D. C., and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Bibler of that community. She was graduated last week from the Northwestern High School at Hyattsville, Md.

In addition, the group of eight Northwestern majorettes which she leads was named the outstanding corps of majorettes in the country.

The selections were made at the 17th annual National School Safety Patrol parade in Washington recently, sponsored by the American Automobile Association.

The award Ronda won for her performance in the 4½-hour parade is an 18-inch trophy, a gold-finished figure of a baton twirler in action, mounted on a white, ivory-like base. Several hundred other drum majorettes from all parts of the country competed. Her corps of majorettes received a loving cup in recognition of their excellence as a group.

Ronda was just five years old when the Bibler family moved from Marion. Mr. Bibler operates a Lincoln-Mercury garage in Washington. Relatives here include grandparents, Mrs. Edith Bibler, 342 Oak St., and Mr. and Mrs. Neal Berridge, Morral.

An outstanding appearance Ronda has made was as leader of the Maryland group at the Presidential inauguration in Washington. She was chosen for this honor. She also has performed in Chicago and New York in addition to places in and around her home.

SWISS TRUCE TEAM OFF FOR KOREA. Members of Switzerland's truce team, who will particate as "neutrals" when the armistice is signed in Panmunjom, wave as they prepare to take off for Korea from the National Airport in Washington. In foreground are Maj. Gen. Frederick Rihner (left), chief of the mission, and Col. Ernse Asper, executive officer.

Ronda has been twirling a baton for about ten years. As leader of her high school's corps of majorettes, it had been her responsibility for the last two years to train other members of the corps in the intricate marching routines and baton maneuvers which they must know for the numerous parades in which they appear. She also has been teaching baton twirling and dancing for a dance studio near her home.

She has been offered modeling jobs but also has thought of entering the University of Wisconsin which has one of the finest bands and corps of majorettes in the country.

Ronda has two younger sisters, one of them, Paula Kay, 14, also is a baton twirler.

Heir to Throne Of Tunis Shot

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—The aged heir presumptive to the throne of Tunisia, Azzedine Bey, reportedly a sympathizer with his country's French governors, was shot and wounded today in the garden of his home here.

His assailant was arrested soon after and police began questioning him.

Azzedine Bey is a cousin of the nominal sovereign of Tunisia, Sidi Mohammed Al-Amin, the 72-year-old Bey of Tunis. As the Bey's oldest relative, Azzedine Bey would succeed to the throne if anything happened to the ruler.

Azzedine Bey on several occasions has signed letters to the French residency, which actually controls the protectorate, indicating his willingness to supplant his cousin if needed.

The ruling Bey is more inclined to favor the cause of the independence-seeking Tunisian nationalists.

Post Office Dept. Revamps Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Post Office Department says it has conferred with representatives of the railroads, the airlines and the truck association on plans to improve mail service and reduce costs.

One of the several proposals before the department, informed sources said, calls for air movement of all or most first-class mail going long distances and movement of short-haul mail by truck.

Woman Found Wounded; Man Questioned

Police answered a call at 2:01 this morning to 1004 Gebhardt St. and found Mrs. Della Lewis of Toledo lying on the floor with a knife wound in her abdomen.

She was taken to City Hospital in a Boyd's ambulance. Her condition this morning was reported as good.

Police are holding a man with whom she was reported arguing earlier in the evening. He is being held on an open charge for questioning. Police are conducting an investigation to determine whether the wound was self-inflicted or caused by another person.

KOREA CASUALTIES

Glasses are worn by 67.3 per cent of all American adults.

Youth Admits Armed Robbery

HAMILTON, O. (AP)—Police said they held a signed confession today from one of the two youthful bandits who held up the Rainbow Gardens in Millville shortly after noon Monday.

The youth, Louis Howard Bryant, 22, Butler County, was arrested late Monday night and charged with armed robbery in a warrant signed by Deputy Sheriff Al Mahatha.

Police said Bryant furnished them with the name of his companion.

The gunmen reportedly got about $250 from the cash register and $65 from customers at the establishment.

Ohio Edison Strike Threat Past Deadline

Ohio Edison employees, members of the CIO-Utility Workers Union at the Scioto Power Plant, continued work today past a midnight strike deadline set to start last night.

The Associated Press reported Ohio Edison workers at Akron also continued work.

Negotiations between the company and union representatives broke up early today and no new ones were scheduled. Both officials of the company and union said there apparently would be more held.

The company, which on June 5 offered a six-cent hourly pay boost on a percentage basis, upped its offer to 8.23 cents an hour. The Union turned down the six-cent offer on June 23. Present hourly rates were not available.

The company serves a million and a half persons in northeastern Ohio. About 2,200 employees are members of the Utility Workers Union.

Can Result in Stiff Fines

Dumping Garbage Along Roads Offensive, Illegal

Disposing of garbage by dumping it along Marion County roads and highways can be a rather expensive proposition, local law enforcement officials are pointing out.

The situation is not a new one, but with the current high temperatures pointing up the problem, more complaints are being voiced by county residents.

Chief problem encountered by the Marion County sheriff's office in the effort to abolish dumping garbage along the highways is that of catching the violators, Sheriff Glenn Obenour disclosed.

He added that county residents can be a big help in apprehending violators by detaining them when they see the illegal dumping of garbage and rubbish along the roads until a law enforcement officer can arrive.

Several times, Sherriff Obenour said, he and his deputies have followed a suspicious-looking vehicle apparently loaded with rubbish, but in all these cases the drivers went to the city dump to dispose of their loads.

He believes that most of the garbage - dumping along country roads is done by Marion residents who think that this is a no-expense "way of disposing of their garbage without paying the required fee for city garbage disposal service."

But the sheriff warned these individuals of the stiff penalty such action may cost them. Municipal Court Judge W. Dexter Hazen reports that a $25 and costs fine is the usual penalty imposed on violators.

Blast Kills 30 In Guatemala

GUATEMALA, Guatemala (AP) — Rescue workers probed the wreckage of a hotel and an apartment building for additional victims today as the death toll in a mystery dynamite explosion reached at least 30. Officials said the grim count may go as high as 50.

Thirty-one other persons were injured in the blast yesterday that demolished a thick concrete grocery warehouse near the city's general cemetery. The nearby adobe-construction hotel and the apartment building collapsed, burying the victims.

The explosion, which shook the capital city of 300,000 set off a fire which raged through adjoining homes for four hours before it was brought under control.

An official statement said the blast was caused by a "great quantity of highly potent explosive" but they added the reason for the dynamite being stored in the warehouse was still unknown. Police and Army officers were investigating the possibility that it may have been connected with a plot against the government.

Less Guns, More Butter

Report East Germans Cutting Army in Half

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany today was reported slashing in half its 125,000-man army which so signally failed to put down the recent workers' revolt.

The move appeared designed to free men and money for the Reds' announced new program to placate the East Germans with more consumer goods.

Reporting this, the Socialist-edited West Berlin newspaper Telegraf said over 60,000 of the Soviet-trained soldiers would be sent back to industrial jobs by July 15.

The East zone army failed dismally when it was sent into action against the June 17 revolt. After Russian armored forces intervened to put down the rebellion, German soldiers were put on police duty under Soviet command.

The force reportedly slated to be cut in half is the Kasernierte Volkspolizei (KVP), an organization separate from the 100,000-man Volkspolizei or people's police. The KVP is completely militarized and has undergone infantry training since 1949.

A vast reduction in armament expenditures had been ordered by East Zone Premier Otto Grotewohl's regime on the eve of the uprising. The cutback apparently will be carried out now despite the anti - Communist discontent still seething in East Germany.

The Telegraf said miners, skilled craftsmen and trained apprentices will be the first troops to shed the Russian-style olive green uniforms.

The government, in its new "butter instead of guns" policy, counts on taking the equivalent of 500 million dollars a year from rearmament funds and investing it in workers' housing and consumer industries.

Several German soldiers have been executed and scores sentenced to long prison terms by Soviet military courts for disobedience during the revolt. A total of 467 troops and Red peoples' police deserted to West Berlin in June—an all-time record.

East Germany's military chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Vincenz Mueller, submitted a report to Soviet headquarters in East Berlin admitting the "unreliability" of his combat units.

But East Germany still was a big headache to the Communists today, amid reports of other workers' outbreaks in Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Russians eased—but did not lift—martial law in East Berlin, and continued turning back provincial cities to civilian administration. Grotewohl's jittery Cabinet was not yet strong enough, however, to exercise national authority.

In its efforts to appease millions of enemies, the government:

1. Released 15 Protestant clergymen from jail and took the sentences of 15 others under review, with prospects they soon will regain freedom.

2. Promised an overhaul of the judicial system to establish "democratic" legal rights of citizens.

3. Began a drastic shakeup in the state chain store system to get more goods on sale at lower prices.

4. Spurred food deliveries to restive towns where supplies of margarine, vegetables and other staples have been exhausted.

5. Continued to stump factory and labor meetings, confessing past oppression of the workers and claiming the government's "new course" would raise living standards.

In Czechoslovakia, Prague newspaper and the government radio admitted yesterday that production in key industries has dropped seriously because of workers' absenteeism. Diplomats in neighboring Austria speculated that the Czech workers, who clashed with police in bloody riots recently, had turned to passive resistance.

The West Berlin newspaper Nacht-Depesche reported yesterday that the June 17 anti-Communist revolts spread immediately to at least seven formerly German cities under Polish control. It declared the situation in the East German area that Poland now occupies was still "disturbed."

Drunk Driver Bill Gets By Ohio House

3-Day Mandatory Jail Sentence OK'd After Floor Vote

COLUMBUS (AP)—A bill requiring judges to send drunk drivers to jail for at least three days probably will go to Gov. Frank J. Lausche's desk by the week end.

The House all but completed passage of the measure Tuesday. The 76-41 vote sent the bill back to the Senate for approval of technical amendments.

The measure likely would have its biggest effect on motorists arrested in rural areas. Cities would have the option of charging drunk drivers either under the new state law or under their own ordinances. Most such ordinances allow suspension of jail terms.

The reason cities likely will continue to file charges under their own ordinances is that any fines which are collected in such cases would go to city treasuries. Fines collected in cases where the state law is invoked go to county treasuries.

The three-day irrevocable jail sentence provision was included in the bill when the Senate passed it. A House committee took the provision out. But the House, in a floor vote, put it in again.

Maximum penalties for drunken driving under the proposed new law are a $500 fine and six months in a jail or workhouse.

Taking secondary legislative interest Tuesday was House passage of a Senate-approved bill to lift state censorship on newsreels. The bill is a compromise fashioned after an attempt to lift entirely Ohio's 40-year-old movie censorship law failed earlier in the session.

IT'S FUN TO FOOL YOUR HUSBAND!

The fussiest man in America can't tell Mrs. Filbert's Margarine from the most expensive table spread!

Mrs. W. C. Richtmyre, 11 Monmouth Court, Livingston, N. J. writes: "Mrs. Filbert—I couldn't fool my flavor-loving husband with margarine until I gave him yours! Now he even thinks bread, sugar and Mrs. Filbert's makes a wonderful dessert!

"Your margarine surely is good on bread! And for hot vegetables, you and I know that any spread that keeps its fresh flavor, as yours does when melted—must be good!

"Now my husband says that when I paid twice as much—I never beat your country-fresh flavor!" Why don't you win your husband's praise with Mrs. Filbert's Margarine?

Mrs. M. V. Filbert, President

"Letters like Mrs. Richtmyre's are all the proof I need that I've hit real country-fresh flavor!" says Mrs. Filbert. "Folks write me they can taste my margarine is my own recipe!"

Finest ingredients—and real homestyle care—are Mrs. Filbert's other flavor secrets. Put a tempting golden quarter on your table tonight. Taste how extra-fresh—thanks to its gold-aluminum wrap! Or enjoy the same country-fresh flavor in her extra-thrifty new Golden Pound. Mrs. Filbert fortifies every pound with 15,000 units of Vitamin A! A grand food for children, and thrifty enough to cook with! Buy a pound today.

Only a woman could make it taste so good! (and spread so SMO-O-O-TH)

Inside Labor

Truman Rebuilding

By Victor Riesel

Harry Truman sat in an off-the-record luncheon last week with some old friends and allies and discussed the specific tactics, issues and timetable for his first blasts against President Eisenhower in the turbulent political infighting ahead. It was natural that these old friends be labor leaders.

RIESEL

This luncheon came nine years, almost to the day, after that afternoon in Chicago when a little known Missouri, senator walked quietly into the penthouse political headquarters of the late Sidney Hillman and the late Philip Murray at the height of the 1944 Democratic convention.

Unpretentiously, Harry Truman introduced himself as the man the Democratic party regulars wanted to nominate for vice - president of the U.S.

THE CONTROVERSIAL Democratic - Labor coalition that was launched that afternoon nine years ago was very much alive at the off-the-record lunch last week.

That meeting was one of several already held, and soon to be held, in New York, between Mr. Truman and the nation's most influential union chiefs.

When Mr. Truman sat down last Wednesday with the CIO's David McDonald, James Carey, Emil Rieve and national counsel Arthur Goldberg, he already had had a quiet session in the Mayflower with Mr. Hillman's successor, Jack Potofsky, leader of the CIO Men's Clothing Workers' Union.

The lunching labor leaders swapped political talk with him and found Mr. Truman still the master of strategy which has been his great strength through the years since labor first helped make him.

The CIO leaders were eager to cut loose at President Eisenhower. Harry Truman urged restraint.

IN ALL SINCERITY he told the unionists that the office of the presidency was the greatest, most responsible job in the world. The ex - President said it would be unfair to lambaste Mr. Eisenhower this early in the administration. No one could master the office in so short a time.

Mr. Truman, quietly and jovially, also pointed out that he could not ethically now attack Ike. The time had not come. It would lend the impression that Mr. Truman was still trying to run the country on the basis of what he had been privy to as president. He explained that he wanted to be just a private citizen when he cut loose.

In both sessions, with Mr. Potofsky and with the larger CIO group, Mr. Truman enjoyed telling of his drive across country from Missouri to Washington.

HE SAID he did exactly what he had done as a senator. There was no eccentricity in this; he enjoyed it. He had gotten into the car with Mrs. Truman and had taken the same road he took to Washington as senator.

Difference was that when he stepped into a roadside restaurant, the diners left their pie and coffee to ask for autographs. When he drove into a filling station to ask where a motel might be nearby, word got around and soon a little group formed near his sleeping quarters.

The local police chief came in to offer protection, which was waved aside. But the next morning there was a police escort to the main highway, so he wouldn't "get lost."

It was apparent that Mr. Truman enjoyed being "Mr. Democrat." But he would put off using that prestige politically for a while. And, he observed, nothing would be lost by waiting.

HE WAS CERTAIN the Republicans would make errors. In his characteristic jargon he told his political partners to "give the GOP enough time to hang itself." Over this there was general enthusiasm.

After Washington, Mr. Truman motored to New York to see the Liberal party leaders, David Dubinsky and Alex Rose. The overt reason is Truman's desire to meet with those helping to build the $1,500,000 Truman Library.

There is no doubt that the old Democratic - labor coalition is being revived, revised and refueled. Common tactics will be discussed.

Mr. Truman will leave behind him pledges of active and outspoken support for labor's campaign to oust the Republicans from Congress in next years' election.

MR. TRUMAN'S choice of luncheon campanions so far is also significant for its omissions. He seems to have ignored the AFL leaders in Washington. All of which indicates that the labor people may not be as solid in their opposition to Mr. Eisenhower as their public speeches indicate.

We know at least that the White House strategists are working closely these days with AFL lawyers on revision of the Taft-Hartley law, while the CIO leaders have not been approached.

Which explains why CIO is so wild about Harry.

Phils End Month With League's Best Record, Reds 2nd

Yanks Top AL Despite 8-Game Losing Streak

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sportswriter

The Milwaukee Braves and the Brooklyn Dodgers stole most of the headlines but the surprising Philadelphia Phillies played the best baseball in the National League in June.

A lot of the experts wrote off the Phils' pennant chances when Curt Simmons ran his toe through a lawn mower early in the month. The star left-hander appeared in only one game in June and he was beaten in that one.

Despite this gaping hole in their slim pitching staff, the Phils won 17 out of 30 games in June for a .567 pace, a notch ahead of Brooklyn's 15-12 record. Cincinnati had the second best won-and-lost record, 18-14.

The Phils opened the month in fourth place, 3 games behind the league - leading Dodgers. Today they're still in fourth place, three games behind, but with the good news that Simmons hopes to be back in action within a week.

In the American League the Yankees, who ended the month with an eight-game losing streak which still is unbroken, had the best over-all record. They won 19 games, 18 of them in a row, and lost 10. But second-place Cleveland was almost as good, winning 19 while losing 1. On June 1 the Indians were 4½ behind. Today they're five back.

The Yankees lost their eighth straight last night at Boston, 5-4, when Sammy White blasted a home run into the left-field screen with a man on base and two out in the ninth inning. The longest Yankee losing streak of recent times is nine games in 1945. The club record is 13.

The Braves snapped their losing string at eight games as Eddie Mathews homered in the 10th inning of the second game of a twi-light-night double-header at Cincinnati. The Braves won, 6-4. They dropped the first game, 6-3.

At Brooklyn the Phillies needed 10 innings to edge the Dodgers, 10-9. Chicago beat the Cardinals, 10-3, and Pittsburgh whipped the New York Giants, 3-1.

In other American League action Cleveland defeated Detroit, 6-4, in a game cut to five innings by a cloudburst; St. Louis nipped the Chicago White Sox, 4-2, and Washington beat Philadelphia, 3-0.

The Yankees led twice at Boston and after Yogi Berra homered in the top of the ninth it looked for sure if their bad luck had run out. But Hoot Evers opened the Boston ninth with a single and after two outs White blasted Allie Reynolds' first pitch to him all the way.

The Dodgers-Phillies contest was a typical Brooklyn affair with 34 players—10 of them pitchers—seeing action. Five hurlers toiled for each side with Jim Konstanty gaining the victory over Joe Black, who threw to only two men.

Loss of Phil Rizzuto Seen As Big Blow

Writer Reports Scooter's Absence Could Cost Pennant

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Anyone who tries seriously to figure out what's going on in the big leagues at this time, much less what might occur before the two races end, is threatened with softening of the brain tissues, but here we go again.

The Yankees are finding out at long last what happens to a club, no matter how solid it might be otherwise, when such a great shortstop as Phil Rizzuto begins to slip over the hill. The little Scooter is not a well man, and he has a knee which troubles him.

Sure, the champions picked up Willie Miranda as shortstop insurance, and the Cuban is a real good fielder. But over the past week end we saw him wave at one grounder we feel certain Rizzuto would have turned into a double play, and we saw a pop fly bounce off his glove on an important play.

Unless, and until, Phil comes back and plays shortstop at something approaching his best form, we are ready to believe that the Yankees are in real trouble and that it is entirely possible they will eventually be caught and passed, probably by Cleveland.

The best thing that could have happened to the Indians was when they finally gave up on Ray Boone and traded him away and installed George Strickland at shortstop. The decision was a hard one to make, for Boone at times has shown real promise as a hitter whereas Strickland can't hit a lick but the change has made the Tribe a vastly better looking ball club.

Although the White Sox also trampled the Yanks and perhaps even softened them up a bit for the Indians, the go-go boys did not quite look like a club that might take it all. Our feeling is, rather, that in driving his team to 14 victories in its last 16 games Richards has done one of the greatest jobs of managing ever.

This leaves little space to give you the lowdown on the National League race, and it perhaps is just as well. If we had to make a choice right now, it would be the St. Louis Cardinals. A man very high in the baseball hierarchy—one who must remain neutral for the record—told friends recently the best thing that could happen to baseball this year would be an all-Western World Series. Maybe he was being prophetic.

And a Boston writer who was in Milwaukee to watch the Braves lose seven straight said he was going right back home to mow the grass at Braves Field there and generally make ready for the prodigals' return.

Toledo Gains On League Leaders

By The Associated Press

Toledo's surging Sox edged to within one game of the American Association lead Monday night, defeating Charleston as last - place Columbus out-lasted league-leading Indianapolis in a slugfest.

Murray Wall hurled a neat three-hitter for the Sox in their 4-1 victory over Charleston.

Shortstop Sherry Dixon's first home run of the season was the payoff punch for Columbus' 10-8 victory over the Indians.

St. Paul and Louisville were back in a deadlock for fourth place, after both scored wins.

The Saints, with a revised batting order, hammered four Kansas City pitchers for 11 hits and a 6-2 victory.

In a wild game at Minneapolis, Louisville scored two runs in the top of the 12th inning to beat the Millers 11-9.

Fight Results

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES—Auburn Copeland, 125½, Flint, Mich. stopped Oscar Torres, 123, Los Angeles, 6.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. — Lester Felton, 151, Detroit, outpointed Bobby Lloyd, 152, Wilkes-Barre, 10.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

While baseball fans keep a sharp watch on their favorites, fight fans are eagerly awaiting the signing of Rocky Marciano for the next defense of his heavyweight title.

The fight, apparently is set for August or September at Yankee Stadium, with the opponent to be Roland LaStarza or Ezzard Charles. At the present time, LaStarza seems to have the inside track.

SHORT

Should that happen and Charles be shunted aside, we think the Cincinnati fighter would be suffering an injustice. He has proved his right to another crack at the crown while LaStarza, who probably should rank just behind Charles, has managed to dance and jab his way to few well-scattered decisions. His last fight against Dan Bucceroni should have been enough to eliminate him in favor of Charles for the title crack.

When Charles was declared the loser in his last bout against Joe Walcott, he started a campaign for a return shot at the crown. He vowed he would take on all ranking contenders to prove his right to the crown. He did just that. He fought every heavyweight, some of them headliners, willing to enter the ring with him. The willing list included neither Marciano nor LaStarza.

During his campaign, Ezzard has shown a new form. No longer is he the cautious fighter of old. Rather, he is a standup, counter-punching ringmaster who could easily put away the youthful LaStarza.

Charles and many of his backers are convinced the IBC may be trying to hold him from a title bout. They feel Marciano, LaStarza and Walcott were all sitting back doing nothing but hope for an upset of Charles during his lengthy campaign.

Now the lid is off. Ez is right back in contention and something has to give. IBC heads apparently have decided two bouts will make more money than an elimination contest between Ez and LaStarza with the winner signing for a championship go.

COME ON IN. Vern Hensel, manager of the Crystal Lake Swimming Pool, has been having trouble lately. Many local swimmers apparently don't know the pool is open for night swimming on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and several of them have been visiting the pool late at night for a dip before retiring.

Hensel has asked these people to come out during pool evening hours when life guards are on duty. He also said that on other extremely hot days chances are good the pool will be open to accommodate late swimmers. Those going to the pool around midnight and after not only are flirting with the law but are putting their life in danger due to the abhsence of guards, he said.

Redlegs' Bell Top Slugger In Majors

NEW YORK (AP)—A year ago, Gus Bell's future in the major leagues was uncertain. Today, the 24-year-old Cincinnati outfielder is the leading slugger of both circuits.

Slugging averages compiled by The Associated Press show Bell tops the National League with a .617 mark. He has piled up 156 total bases in 253 times at bat.

In the American League, Al Rosen of the Cleveland Indians shows the top figure of .574. The veteran third baseman has pounded out 12 doubles, two triples and 16 home runs among his 79 hits, for an aggregate of 143 total bases. He has been at bat 249 times. Records include Sunday's games.

Cincinnati first sacker Ted Kluszewski and Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee third baseman, are tied for the runner-up spot behind Bell, each with a .606 slugging average.

Gus Zernial of the Philadelphia Athletics is second to Rosen in the American League with .533.

Toledo Half-Game Out in AA Battle

By The Associated Press

Toledo and Kansas City advanced on league-leading Indianapolis in the American Association pennant chase Tuesday night, registering victories over down-the-ladder clubs.

Toledo, now only a half game behind the Indians, came from behind twice for a 6-5 victory over seventh-place Charleston. Kansas City scored 13 unearned runs in a 15-2 rout of St. Paul.

Indianapolis' game with Columbus was rained out. Minneapolis beat Louisville 5-2 in the night's other contest.

Toledo, only a half game behind the Indians, scored two runs in the sixth inning for its margin over the Senators.

County Bank Upsets Little Loop Leaders

Isaly Team Scores Shutout Over Goodyear Squad

Marion County Bank surprised league leading National City Bank, 4-0, and Isaly's Dairy shutout Goodyear, 5-0, in two Little League games played Tuesday night. The games were part of the American League schedule.

Marion County Bank scored in every inning but two and Chuck Lindsey allowed only five scattered hits in downing National City. In the first inning it looked as though it would be another one of those nights as County Bank was stopped cold and National City collected two of its four hits but couldn't reach home.

County Bank went to work in the second as Buddy Collins and Larry Sims led off with singles. Collins scored on a passed ball which would have been sufficient for the win but County Bank was going to make sure this time. They ponded out nine hits and three more runs for a clincher.

Nick Nichols of the Isaly team had the arm at his control last night as he gave up only one hit in shutting out Goodyear. The hit came when Whetro singled in the second inning, the only sign of a possible uprising all evening.

To give Goodyear an idea of what they were up against, Isaly pounded out two hits in the first but waited till the third to draw blood. In the fourth Jaycox doubled to start the rally and with three bases on balls, two singles and a fielder's choice, four runs came gliding across the plate.

Nichols, the Isaly pitcher, got 11 strikeouts in one of the finest pitching performances of the year.

Tonight in two National League games, Vance plays Wilhelm and Hinton's meet Osgood.

Commercial League Opens Second Round

Carl's Upsets 1st Round Champs; Legion Teams Win

The second round of the Commercial Softball Loop opened at Garfield Park Tuesday with Carl's Auto Parts, Bird-McGinnis, and G.I. Post taking victories.

Carl's Auto Parts, behind the two-hit twirling of Sonny Taylor, upset the first round Champs Smitty's All-Stars in a thriller, 3-2. The game went eight innings before Carl's pushed over a run in the top half of the extra inning. Both teams scored single tallies in the first and fourth frames and played out the remaining three innings in regulation play in a deadlock. R. Smith opened the eighth for Carl's with a single but was erased as Howard Grubbs grounded into a fielder's choice. After Daum followed with a single. Grubbs scored the winning run on an error. Bob Makeever allowed five hits for the All-Stars while Walters and Weber were the only hitters to solve the slants of Taylor.

G.I. Post defeated the West Town Merchants by an 8-5 count in the second game on the card. The two teams entered the final inning with G.I. Post leading 4-1. The Post added four tallies in the final inning on four hits and the West Town Merchants promptly followed with an explosion good for four tallies. Bud Thorpe gave up 10 hits in receiving credit for the win while Hartley allowed eight.

Bird-McGinnis shut out the UAW-CIO 1039 team, 5-0, as winning pitcher Dwight Wilcox spun himself a three-hitter.

The Legion pushed over a single run in the first frame and added two more in the second and two in the fourth. The winners banged out seven hits during the game.

Mantle Regains Lead In All-Star Balloting

CHICAGO (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' center fielder, has regained the individual lead in the annual All-Star baseball poll.

Mantle, replaced Monday by the Washington Senators' 35-year-old first baseman, Mickey Vernon, returned to top spot in the balloting today with a total of 496,334 votes.

Vernon was runnerup with 487,662.

Cuts Deficit to 5 Lengths

Tribe Downs Tigers, 6-4, In Rain-Shortened Game

DETROIT (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, hoping for more help from the Boston Red Sox, continue their advance on first place in the American League today in another game with the Detroit Tigers.

The Indians, whipping Detroit 6-4 Tuesday night in a rain-shortened contest, moved to within five games of the New York Yankees as Boston edged the faltering leaders, 5-4. The game, halted in the first half of the sixth inning, was Cleveland's sixth straight triumph.

The victory was assured by two-run homers from the bats of Dale Mitchell and Al Rosen, the league's leading hitter. Rosen's home run was his 17th and made him the first player this season to hit one in every park in the league.

Winning pitcher Art Houtemann, making his first start against his ex-teammates, took a razzing from the Detroit fans when he gave up hits to the first three men to face him. An out followed, then former Tribesman Ray Boone singled in a run before the Indians could stop the first inning threat. But Houtemann settled down to win his second victory against one loss for the Indians.

The Indians, scoring all their runs off starter Ned Garver, moved ahead with two runs in the second inning. They scored four more with Rosen's homer in the third, following a double by Bob Avila, and Mitchell's sixth homer in the fourth.

Detroit bounced back in the fifth inning on a three-run homer by Johnny Pesky following singles by Don Lund and Harvey Kuenn.

When the game was stopped, the Indians had loaded the bases against reliefer Earl Harris on an error by Pesky and two walks. Easter was at bat.

Bob Lemon goes to the mound today against Detroit southpaw Ted Gray.

Snead, Middlecoff Begin Shooting for PGA Crown

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—Something new has been added this year to the Professional Golfers Association Championship, which always has its own unique flavor. And the stay-at-home club pros who are the main support of the organization aren't sure they like it.

The 35th PGA tournament, starting today at the toughened-up Birmingham Country Club course, still is the club pros' big party. But when they set the dates over the busy July 4 weekend and gave architect Robert Trent Jones the job of stiffening the course, some of the players began squawking.

Many found it difficult to leave their clubs on the busy weekend and some couldn't make it at all. And they shuddered at the memory of what Jones did to nearby Oakland Hills for the 1951 National Open.

But as the firing began today, everything looked pretty normal. Practice rounds showed that the narrow fairways and rolling greens can be mastered. The rough had been trimmed a bit and the fairway widened on one hole—the ninth. It was explained that this would allow misplaced drives to roll into a couple of big traps instead of sticking in the deep grass.

And the favorites were about the same as for any tournament, even though some of the younger tournament stars aren't eligible for the PGA and a couple of well-known players dropped out.

Long-hitting Sam Snead, three times winner of the PGA title, and Dr. Cary Middlecoff, who played in this event for the first time last year, were most frequently mentioned. But the drive-and-wedge proportions of the Birmingham course brought the names of such short hitters as Ted Kroll, Jerry Barber, George Fazio and Defending Champion Jimmy Turnesa into the discussions.

Wins at Hilliards On Muddy Track

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—It was a mudder's track at Hilliards Raceway Tuesday night and Shangri La Audrey, owned by Columbus realtor Russell Welch, showed she liked the heavy footing by winning both heats of the feature William Gardner trophy race.

Robert Wells guided the six-year-old mare through a sloppy track, all but washed out by heavy rains.

William "Doc" McMillen, the meeting's leading driver, picked up his 13th victory behind Juggernaut, a 5-1 shot.

Baker, Satterfield In Televised Ring Clash

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Baker of Pittsburgh takes on unpredictable Bob Satterfield of Chicago in a 10-round heavyweight boxing bout tonight at Chicago Stadium.

Baker, ranked fourth in line for Rocky Marciano's title, will be facing a rough swinger in Satterfield. The Chicago Negro has a mediocre record of 29 victories in 45 fights—but 23 of his wins were scored on knockouts.

The sponsoring International Boxing Club has announced the winner of the bout, to be televised nationally, will meet the victor of a July 22 stadium bout between Dan Bucceroni and Tommy Harrison.

RING OFFICIAL DIES

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charley Daggert, widely-known boxing referee who officiated at the first Walcott-Marciano fight, died of a heart attack Tuesday.

Yesterday's STARS

Batting—Eddie Matthews, Milwaukee Braves, got five hits in five tries, including two homers as Milwaukee broke its eight game losing streak against Cincinnati, 6-4. Mathews' second home run in the 10th inning broke up the contest.

Pitching — Bob Porterfield, Washington Senators, scattered seven hits and homered for two runs in beating Philadelphia, 3-0.

Redlegs Belt Way to Split With Braves

Mathews Smacks 2 After Cincy Wins Opener; Bell Stars

CINCINNATI (AP) —Cincinnati's winning streak was at an end today, but the Redlegs could console themselves by looking at the batting marks a couple of their hustling teammates are compiling.

Ted Kluszewski hit three for seven in both games as the Redlegs ran their string to six games, 6-3, before dropping the finale of Tuesday night's twi-night doubleheader, 6-4, to Milwaukee.

He now is batting an even .300 and is leading the National League in home runs, although he has to share that spot with Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews. Mathews 21st and 22nd homers won for the Braves in the finale and enabled them to break an eight-game losing streak.

Redleg Gus Bell holds present undisputed possesion of first place in the league's runs batted in division, driving in one run in the opener and three more in the nightcap to hike his RBI total to 65.

Bell also slashed his 20th homer to hold down runner-up spot in that department, while his three-for-eight batting Tuesday night upped his average to .326, third best in the league.

Southpaw Harry Perkowski got off to a shaky start in the opener. The Braves scratched him for a run in the first frame and got another when Joe Adcock homered in the second. The Redlegs tied the game at 2-2 in the fourth and both clubs scored in the fifth.

Andy Seminick broke the deadlock with his eighth homer in the sixth and Cincinnati's Jim Greengrass socked his 11th homer and Bob Borkowski his sixth to wrap things up in the eighth.

Milwaukee tied the nightcap game at 4-4 in the eighth when Mathews smacked a two-run homer and Gordon followed with another. The game went into an extra inning when neither team scored in the ninth and Mathews put the Braves ahead to stay with his second successive homer, a two-run drive near the rightfield screen.

The clubs end their three-game series this afternoon.

Hilton Hotels Lease Deshler in Columbus

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Officials of the Hilton Hotels Corp. today began a two-day meeting to iron out details of the addition of the Deshler-Wallick Hotel, Columbus' largest, to their chain. The Deshler, to be known now as the Deshler-Hilton, was made the 16th member of the chain Tuesday when the Hilton interests leased the Columbus landmark from the Deshler Corp. for a 20-year period.

Luke Is The Big Differnce, Says Al Lopez

DETROIT (AP)—"Luke is back and that's the big difference," said Cleveland Manager Al Lopez today as his Indians continue to close ground on the fading New York Yankees.

The Indians had just defeated the Detroit Tigers, 6-4, in a game halted in the top of the sixth inning because of rain. It was their sixth straight win and cut the Yankees lead—over 11½ games—to a mere five.

Lopez, needless to say, was feeling fine.

"With Easter back in there we're a new team," he said. "He's given all the boys a big lift."

Easter, Cleveland's giant first baseman, missed 53 games this season due to a foot injury. But now he's back and the Indians are closing ground on the Yankees like a Native Dancer in the stretch. There is a strong feeling too, that they'll overtake the Yanks, who have lost eight games in a row.

"I said that it was anybody's race when we were 12 games behind," Lopez said. "I say the same thing now. There's still some 80 games to play and anything can happen in that time.

"With Easter back though, we are a better ball club. Why, Larry Doby was trying to carry this club all by himself. When Luke returned to the lineup, he said to Doby, 'Larry, you've been trying to carry the world on your shoulders. I'm back now—so now you only have to carry half of it.' "

Lopez also singled out Al Rosen for special praise pointing to his league-leading 55 runs batted in.

Ex-Ohioan Asks Deportation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Frank Cammarata has asked the U. S. Supreme Court to deport him to his native Italy instead of sending him back to a Michigan prison for violating parole.

Cammarata, a former Ohioan, Tuesday filed a petition with the high court asking it to reconsider its June 15 denial of a review of his case. He asked the court to review findings of Ohio courts which found he was a fugitive from Michigan and ordered him returned to that state.

Cammarata was arrested by immigration authorities June 15 for deportation, the second time he has been taken into custody by the federal agents.

The former convict got into trouble in 1930 when he was sentenced in Detroit to 15-30 years in Michigan State Prison on a charge of armed robbery.

On July 17, 1946, immigration officials arrested him in Youngstown, O., and notified Michigan parole authorities. They issued a warrant for his arrest, charging violation of his Michigan parole.

Browns' Speedie Moves to Canada

CLEVELAND — Mac Speedie, pass-catching end for the Cleveland Browns, Tuesday announced his intention of signing with Regina in the Canadian Leauge. He said the jumping was strictly a financial proposition.

Coach Paul Brown said he was considering what legal action could be taken to prevent Speedie from jumping the club. He said the 33-year-old Speedie had been offered a pay boost for the coming campaign. The coach added he thought Darrell Brewster would fill the gap created should Speedie follow his plans.

Speedie said he would not have considered the move to the Canadian League had he not felt he was nearing the end of his football trail. He pointed to that fact that he suffered a serious knee injury last season and did not know how much longer he could last. He said the Canadian competition was not as rough as in the National Football League.

Ohio courts honored the request for extradition.

Cammarata has been free on $10,000 bond during the appeals.

100 Golfers Open Play In Publinx

CLEVELAND (AP)—A field of 100 players began teeing off over the tough, 6,900-yard Lost Nation course today as first round competition started in the Ohio Public Links Championship.

A heavy rain soaked the turf late Tuesday, eliminating the extra roll sun-baked fairways would have given the players.

Cliff Rhein of Cincinnati, defending champion and the favorite, had to cut short his practice round because of the downpour.

A 19-year-old junior at the University of Cincinnati, Rhein goes to school the year-round on a co-operative plan, and only by using all of his class cuts for one semester was he able to get away for the meet.

Tom Cloran of East Liverpool, defeated by Rhein in the match-play finals at Columbus last year, also returned for another crack at the title. The Ohio Public Links Association decided this year to revert to the original medal play system.

The field plays 18 holes today and tomorrow on the par 72 layout and the low 50 will battle it out for the championship over 36 holes Friday.

Average rent paid by manual workers in Scotland in 1951 was $1.30 a week.

TO STORE WHEAT SAFELY AT HOME FOR GOVERNMENT LOAN FOLLOW THESE STEPS

1. Clean and spray bins and surrounding building surfaces NOW.
2. We will custom dry your wheat if it is over 12% moisture when combined. Damp wheat will get weavily in a hurry. Should be 12% or lower for safe storage. High moisture content is the principal reason for farm stored wheat getting out of condition.
3. Use sheet metal, hardware cloth or other materials to make bin rodent proof.
4. Be sure windows and other openings are in good repair to prevent entry of birds.
5. Fumigate promptly within two to three weeks after grain is stored.

Sunken British Ship Has No Gold Aboard

LEWES, Del. (UP) — Treasure hunters, seeking for years to locate a sunken British privateer that was supposed to have carried between $10,000,000 and $40,000,000 in Spanish gold, have been told their search is in vain.

The privateer was the Braak, which went down May 25, 1798, in Delaware Bay about one mile off Cape Henlopen. One year later, the British tried to float her. The effort failed.

Since that time, generations of treasure hunters have tried to find the Braak. Its location is listed in a Bible owned by descendants of the sloop's co-pilot. None of the efforts was successful.

Donald Geddes, 3rd, Bethesda, Md., a student at George Washington College who spent eight months on Braak research, told a group searching for the ship that records of the British Admiralty show the Braak was carrying copper and cocoa but no gold.

U. S. farm population has declined nine and a half per cent since 1932, but production is up 45 per cent.
